WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

The Tariff Trouble in the Ways and Means Committee.

President Grant to Attend the Army Reunion.

Action on the Civil Rights Bill Again Postponed.

Report of the House Committee on Sales of Arms.

Mrs. Mason's Testimony Before the Senate Committee.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The battle in the Ways and Means Committee has not yet been decided, and up to 10 o'clock to-night it was not conclusively determined whether Mr. DAWES would report the majority bill to-morrow, or whether he would repudiate all connection, and, following his convictions, offer a substitute for it after it got into the House. The Committee are in session to-night, still making numerous amendments to the bill in hope of making it acceptable for a unanimous report. The copy telegraphed from here last night to one of your contemporaries was one printed for confidential use on Friday, and stolen, like the Washington treaty, and by the same parties. Since then one hundred changes have been made, so it is of little account to show the actual condition of the bill. The question which will be brought before the country sharply when the bill is reported will be protection versus free trade. The bill of the majority is based on the free-trade platform; just such an one as will probably be indorsed at Cincinnati. It only reduces taxation twenty-eight millions, and of this sum only eight millions comes off internal revenue, and of that five millions is taken from tobacco, six millions come from wool and woolens, which is more than is taken from tea and coffee, and so on throughout. The last thing that was hit today was copper—one-half cent per pound all round. Mr. DAWES has prepared a substitute which he may or may not offer, it depending upon his attitude toward the majority bill. This substitute takes off $41,000,000 of taxes, and makes tea and coffee free, in accordance with the expressed convictions of the House and Senate. Its reductions on manufactures are based upon those of the Senate—about ten per cent. The Secretary of the Treasury and Speaker BLAINE are very anxious that Mr. DAWES should retain parliamentary control of the bill, and trust to the good sense of the House to correct its incongruities. Mr. DAWES is anxious to subserve both the best interests of the country and the party, and he will do it at the sacrifice of everything but his honor and convictions. At the latest moment to-night it was probable that he would report the majority bill, with a protest against many of its features. One of the latest additions to the bill, since it was last printed, is a section for the restoration of the shipping interests, which combines the best features of the bills of Messrs. HALE and LYNCH, submitted some time since and argued before the Committee by Mr. HALE and Speaker BLAINE.

THE SOCIETY OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

The President has accepted an invitation to be present at the meeting of the Society of the Army of the Potomac, at Cleveland, on the 7th of May next. Arrangements are now all perfected. Gen. STEWART L. WOODFORD will deliver the address, and EDMUND C. STEDMAN will deliver the poem. The Grand Army of the Republic under Gen. BURNSIDE, and the Cavalry Corps, Army of the Potomac, will also meet at the same time. This is the first time the Army of the Potomac has ever met in the West, and a large gathering is anticipated.

THE ABBOTT CONTESTED SEAT CASE.

Mr. THURMAN spoke three hours today on the Abbott case, supporting the report of the majority of the Committee refusing his claim to a seat. There was a sharp running debate between THURMAN and CARPENTER, and THURMAN'S argument was able throughout. He makes a strong and original argument, based on the fact that there have been many cases of persons elected to office laboring under political disabilities which have been afterward removed by Congress to allow them to take the office. If ABBOTT'S claim to a seat were good, in all those cases the person who received only a minority of the votes, if at the time of election he was eligible to the office, would have been elected. THURMAN makes out in this way that Congress has many times pronounced against the kind of claim made by ABBOTT. The whole subject is laid over till next week, when there will be an effort made to take it up and dispose of it in a day or two.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL IN THE SENATE.

About 4½ this afternoon the Senate took up the Deficiency Appropriation bill, and it was read through and all the amendments proposed by the Committee were agreed to as in Committee of the Whole. The amount of the appropriations made in the bill by the House was $6,109,027 99. The Senate Committee made changes, including reductions and additions to the extent of $570,685 09; and the bill as reported to the Senate appropriated $5,538,322 70. The Senate agreed to the bill as reported, but will have an opportunity to review its action to-morrow, when the bill will be taken out of committee and some additions will be proposed and probably passed. Of the Senate Committee amendments $26,000 was for mileage of Senators to the special session of Senate last May, and in settling the accounts of JOHN P. HALE, late Minister to Spain. The accounting officers of the Treasury are authorized to allow him salary to the 1st of January, 1870, at which time his health was so far restored as to be able to travel, and the sum necessary to pay the same is appropriated.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL IN THE HOUSE.

By determined filibustering, the Democrats, under the lead of Mr. ELDRIDGE, again evinced their intention to prevent the Civil Rights bill from becoming a law. It has evidently made all the progress in the House that it can make this session. It will be remembered that this is Mr. SUMNER'S bill, and that it was introduced into the House by the Republicans, in order that it might pass there, and then pass the Senate, thereby depriving Mr. SUMNER of the power to delay amnesty by attaching to it an amendment which can never carry two-thirds. And yet, in spite of the Democratic exhibition to-day, TRUMBULL will doubtless continue to insist that it is the Administration Republicans who delay amnesty.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Shortly after the morning hour today the House considered, as in Committee of the Whole, the River and Harbor Appropriation bill. By this means much needed work was done, and all of the pernicious two-thirds legislation of Monday was shut off. The entire bill was finished before the House adjourned, although yearly wrangles between rival sections were carried on with more vim and venom than usual. Out of the numberless additions proposed, all were rejected save only about $40,000. In bulk, the entire appropriation is about $4,000,000.

REPORT BY THE HOUSE ARMS INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

The House Committee to investigate the sale of arms to the French, reported, today, through Mr. WILLIAMS, and the report was printed and ordered recommitted. No resolution calling for action was added to the report, but it is understood that such a resolution will be forthcoming. The minority were given the privilege of printing, but no report has yet been written by Mr. ACKER, of Pennsylvania, who is the only Democratic member of the Committee who has attended its sessions, and it is doubtful if any will be written, as Mr. ACKER admits that there is nothing especial to say which is not contained in Mr. WILLIAMS' report.

A DENIAL.

There is authority from one of the gentlemen mentioned for saying that the alleged meeting in Washington between Senator SCHURZ and other Republicans, with Messrs. PENDLETON, MORGAN and other Democrats, did not take place.

SALES OF ARMS.

Mrs. Mason, alias Davis, Tells her Experience with Norman Wiard, alias Martin—Other Witnesses Examined.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15.—The Senate Arms Committee met this morning at 10½ o'clock.

Mrs. ADA H. MASON was sworn.

Senator HAMLIN said to her: A gentleman by the name of PECK, and one by the name of WIARD, both testified before the Committee that they had interviews with you in relation to the purchase of arms. Mr. PECK said his interviews were both here and at the Hoffman House, and WIARD said his interviews were at the Hoffman House.

Mrs. MASON replied she had a written statement which she had made as concise as possible, and read it as follows:

In the Fall of 1871 an acquaintance wrote me from New-York that he knew a way I could make some money, as some parties wished to buy arms from the Ordnance Department, and if I could make the purchase it would pay me handsomely; I replied I could but try; they then sent me a list of the ordnance they would want, batteries, Enfields, Springfields, ammunition, &c., to the amount of $100,000 or $200,000 or more; I went to the Ordnance Department and saw the officer on duty; Gen. DYER was absent; this gentleman told me the terms the arms were selling for, and he saw no difficulty in the way of a lady purchasing arms if she was able to buy; upon Gen. DYER'S return I again presented myself at the Department with a letter of introduction; Gen. DYER gave me the same information that the officer had done; he added that the Government required a certain per cent. in advance, a margin of twenty-five per cent. on all purchases before the guns could be delivered, to secure themselves against losses; moreover, he could not give me the refusal of the guns, as he had to protect himself against street speculators; this I wrote to New-York; thereupon Mr. PECK presented himself at my house with a letter of introduction from the party who wished to get the arms; he told me he represented Mr. NORMAN WIARD, who, being an enemy of Gen. DYER, couldn't be known in the matter, and he (WIARD) was buying for MCKENZIE, agent of the French steamers, and he (MCKENZIE) bought for GAMBETTA; I cannot recall how many interviews I had with this gentleman; he gave me this information in a few minutes, as I had to excuse myself to him, as I was going to drive out with some friends who were then waiting for me; I had no information to give him outside of that which I had written to New-York; on my last interview with Gen. DYER he told me the matter was transferred to Col. CRISPIN; Mr. WIARD telegraphed to Mr. PECK to get me to come to New-York, and I went on there, staying at the Hoffman House, the hotel I have always gone to in New-York as far back as the 1st of April, 1865; I saw Mr. WIARD for a few minutes once or twice in the drawing-room of the hotel; I told him the money required by the Department must be put up, or I could not negotiate the sale, and I must have a written authority from Mr. MCKENZIE, and if I could get the arms, the money would have to be put up. Mr. PECK brought me the authority from MCKENZIE; I saw Col. CRISPIN, and he, too, reiterated what Gen. DYER had said; I saw it was impossible for me to accomplish anything in New-York, and returned to Washington; all the influence I had with Gen. DYER was the faith I had in my own capacity to accomplish the same others had done; I have made money in legitimate speculations, and did not see why I could not in the speculation of buying arms. Gen. DYER treated me the same as he would have any other trader who came into his office, with the natural consideration a soldier and a gentleman would extend to any hundred men; on her cross-examination Mrs. MASON said she did not represent to either Mr. PECK or Mr. WIARD that she had had interviews with Gens. DYER and INGALLS at the Hoffman House; she had no such interviews; she attempted to buy arms herself; Mr. FERRAND was a party interested, and was to supply the money; she considered that she had sufficient assurance that MCKENZIE wanted to buy arms; he offered the margin at the Ordnance Office, but the price of the guns was held too high; calling on Gen. DYER, in December of 1871, he said: "Who are you purchasing arms for?" witness said, for myself, as well as for MCKENZIE, who is an agent for GAMBETTA, when Gen. DYER responded, "The REMINGTONS are the only agents for the French Government."

Witness was sorry to say that no arms were bought through her influence; she really thought she could have bought the arms if the parties with whom she was negotiating had put up the margin.

Gen. DYER sent a communication to the Committee saying he had had no interview with Mrs. MASON at the Hoffman House, as had been testified to as coming from that lady.

Hon. H. A. STARKWEATHER testified that in January last he went to the War Department for the purpose of looking after a son of Mr. BRANDAGEE; he saw the Secretary and Marquis DE CHAMBRUN conversing together, but did not hear enough of what was said to know what it was about; having finished his errand, he came away; no letter was read by the Secretary while he was there; he did not hear the Secretary say, as testified to by the Marquis DE CHAMBRUN, "I am the Ordnance Department."

JOHN POTTS, Chief Clerk in the War Department, testified that he has been in that position for twenty years; he did not recollect that on the 19th of January he took the Secretary of War's letter to the Secretary of State, out of the regular order; he recollected seeing the Marquis DE CHAMBRUN with the Secretary in his room, but could not state the day; the Secretary signs letters presented to him for signature in the presence of the Chief Clerk; the draft of that letter was on two half sheets.

Col. S. V. BENET, of the Ordnance Bureau, was sworn. He related what occurred at the two interviews between him and DE CHAMBRUN at the Ordnance Bureau; the first was between the 12th and 16th of last January, when CHAMBRUN made inquiries about the sale of arms by the War Department and the papers relating to that subject, sent to the Secretary of War from the State Department; Col. BENET told him no action had been taken on the papers from the State Department, because Gen. DYER was sick; CHAMBRUN asked to see the papers, saying he could simplify the matter, as only a portion required answer; these papers contained the reply of REMINGTON to LE CESNE, and also a telegram from Col. SQUIRE to some one abroad; CHAMBRUN told Col. BENET what two points should be answered, saying they involved questions of international law; CHAMBRUN, in his testimony before the Committee, stated that portions of the papers above referred to had been marked with red before he saw them, showing that Col. BENET knew as much in regard to them as CHAMBRUN; this was not so; Col. BENET'S information as to what particularly required an answer was wholly derived from CHAMBRUN on this occasion; the Secretary of War never told him what to reply to; he could not swear particularly that portions of the papers had not been marked but believes not; CHAMBRUN had difficulty in finding places; the Marquis had said that the original copy of REMINGTON'S letter to LE CESNE was given to him by Col. BENET; this was not so; the letter was given to CHAMBRUN by Gen. DYER, and not being returned in several days, was sent for, when it was returned with red marks upon it, placed thereon while out of the Ordnance Bureau; Col. BENET produced the letter, and it was placed in evidence; Col. BENET'S second interview with the Marquis DE CHAMBRUN took place about Jan. 19, when the latter called, with another gentleman, to make further inquiries, and was shown the report of the Ordnance Bureau, as far as prepared.

Q.—By Mr. HAMLIN—Had you any knowledge at the Ordnance Department that the Gatling guns which were negotiated for by Gen. FRANKLIN were to go to the REMINGTONS? A.—Not the slightest.

Q.—Nor any suspicion? A.—None whatever.

The Committee then adjourned till to-morrow, when the Secretary of War will be examined.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16—1 A. M.—The lowest barometer has moved from Iowa southeastwardly over Illinois and Virginia and is now off the Atlantic Coast. The area of rain from Tennessee northward has extended eastward to the Atlantic, but as snow over the lake region. Rising barometer, northerly to westerly winds and clearing weather have now extended eastward to the South Atlantic Coast, West Virginia and Lake Erie.

PROBABILITIES.

Rising barometer, northerly and westerly winds and clearing weather will extend eastward over the Middle States by Tuesday morning, and over New-England during Tuesday. Clear weather will continue from the lakes to the South Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Dangerous winds are not anticipated.

THE COLORED MEN.

Platform and Resolutions of the New-Orleans Convention—Recognition of Their Friends—Indorsement of Grant's Administration—Charles Sumner.

NEW-ORLEANS, La., April 15.—Lieut.-Gov. RANSIER, of South Carolina, submitted the following report of the Committee on the Platform and Resolutions, which was unanimously adopted:

Regretting the necessity which has called into existence a Colored Convention, and deeply sensible of the responsibilities which have been intrusted to our consideration, we hereby acknowledge our gratitude for past triumphs in behalf of equal rights, and respectfully submit our peculiar grievances to the immediate attention of the American people in the following platform and resolutions:

First—We thank God, the friends of universal liberty in this and other lands, the bravery of our colored soldiers, and the loyalty of the colored people, for our emancipation, our citizenship and our enfranchisement.

Second—Owing to our political emancipation in this country to Republican legislation, to which all other parties and political shades of opinion were unjustly and bitterly opposed, we would be blind to our prospects and false to our best interests did we identify ourselves with any other organization, and as all roads out of the Republican Party lead into the Democratic camp, we pledge our unswerving devotion to support the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention.

Third—We sincerely and gratefully indorse the Administration of President U. S. GRANT, in maintaining our liberties, in protecting our privileges, in punishing our enemies, in the dawn of recognition of the claims of men without regard to color by appointing us to important official positions at home and abroad, in the assurances that he has given to defend our rights, and that, while we in our gratefulness acknowledge and appreciate his efforts in behalf of equal rights, we are not unmindful of his glory as a soldier and his exalted virtues as a statesman.

Fourth—Our thanks are due and hereby tendered to President GRANT for overriding the precedents of prejudice in the better recognition of the services of men, without regard to color, in some parts of the country, and we earnestly pray that the colored Republicans of the States where there are no Federal positions given to the colored men may no longer be ignored, but that they may be stimulated by some recognition of Federal patronage.

Fifth—It would be an ingratitude loathed by men and abhorred by God, did we not acknowledge our overwhelming indebtedness to the service of Hon. CHARLES SUMNER, who stood for a long time alone in the Senate of the United States, the Gibraltar of our cause and the North Star of our hopes; who forfeited caste in the estimation of a large portion of his countrymen by his unswerving devotion to equal rights; who has been maligned for his fidelity to principles; who has been stricken down by an assassin for advocating liberty throughout all the land and unto all the inhabitants thereof, and in whose giant body, rising as it were almost out of the grave to marshal the hosts of impartial justice with his mighty ideas, going to the furthest part of the land and finding a responsive echo in the triumphs of liberty over slavery, we have an assurance of this good, great, and beloved patriot that he will be as faithful to the Republican Party in the future as he has been unfaltering in the past.

Sixth—That, while men professing strong radical sentiments, and who were elected to Congress by overwhelming majorities of colored voters, were found voting against the Supplementary Civil Rights bills in the Senate of the United States, we honor that manly exhibition of devotion to the principles of the Republican Party by which Hon. SCHUYLER COLFAX, Vice-President of the United States, did honor to the cause of justice by recording his casting vote, as President of the Senate, in favor of equality before the law, as indicated in the Supplementary Civil Rights bill as it passed the Senate by virtue of the aforesaid casting vote.

Seventh—Having been, by the solemn legislation of the American Congress, raised to the dignity of citizenship, we appeal to the law-abiding people of the States, especially those who, in the days of the Fugitive Slave law, exhorted obedience to statutes, however offensive, to protect and defend us in the enjoyment of our first rights and privileges upon all conveyances which are common carriers, at all resorts of public amusements, where tastes are cultivated and manhood is quickened, and in all places of public character or corporate associations which owe their existence to the legislation of the nation or the States against the spirit of slavery which attempts to degrade our standard of intelligence and virtue, by forcing our refined ladies and gentlemen into smoking-cars amid obscenity and vulgarity which humiliates our pride by denying us first-class accommodations on steamboats and compelling us to eat and sleep with servants for which we are charged the same as those who have the best accommodations, and which closes the doors of hotels against famished colored persons however wealthy, intelligent, or respectable they may be, while all other public places and conveyances welcome and entertain all white persons, whatever may be their character, who may apply. Now, in view of this disgraceful inconsistency, this affectation of prejudice, of rebellion against the laws of God, humanity and the nation, we appeal to the justice of the American people to protect us in our civil rights in public places and upon public conveyances, which are readily accorded, and very justly, to the most degraded specimens of our white fellow-citizens.

Eighth—That wherever Republicans have betrayed colored constituencies, we recommend that better men be elected to succeed them, and especially do we pledge ourselves to elect successors in Congress, wherever we have the power, to every Republican who voted against or dodged the supplementary Civil Rights bill recently introduced into the United States Senate by Hon. CHARLES SUMNER, and also successors; to those who shall not show a satisfactory record on the Civil Rights bill now in the United States House of Representatives.

A series of resolutions were also adopted:

The first commends the action of Vice-President COLFAX for aiding and giving his support to the Civil Rights bill in the Senate.

The second declares a difference between civil rights and social rights, and recognizes the fact that the social standing of men can only be determined by personal merit and individual achievement.

The third expresses gratitude for the prayers of the friends of freedom in this and other lands.

The fourth refuses to support for office all who cannot rise above the prejudices of color and race.

The fifth recommends a system of common school education such as prevails in New-England.

The sixth asks that some patronage be extended to the colored Republicans of Kentucky and other States, where none has heretofore been given.

The seventh and eighth deny the statements made in certain papers that forced school equality is one of the dominant ideas of the Convention, and animadvert on the practices of amalgamation.

The Convention took a recess to 7 P. M. On reassembling, nothing of importance transpired.

TARIFF AND TAX.

Action of the Committee on Ways and Means Last Night.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Committee of Ways and Means were in session to-night until 11½ o'clock. The completed the tariff and Internal Revenue bill. They had an earnest debate, and did not seem to part in good humor. The four protectionists of the Committee will probably present a bill of their own. The Committee today placed ginger-root on the free list; corks and cork-bark, manufactured, to pay fifty per centum ad valorem; boards, planks, lathes, scantling, spars, plained and smoothed timber, and timber used in building wharves ten per centum ad valorem; free stones, sand-stones, granite, and all building and monumental stones, except marbles, seventy-five cents per ton; all medical preparations, thirty per cent. ad valorem; boracic acid, crude and acetate of copper are placed on the free list which goes into operation on July 1 next: upper leather of all kinds, and skins, tanned and dressed, of all kinds, twenty per cent. ad valorem; band or belting leather, and Spanish or other sole leather, fifty per cent. ad valorem.

On insulated wire, whether of iron or copper, covered with gutta percha or other insulating material, and submarine, other telegraph and electric cable of every kind used exclusively for telegraphing, 35 per cent. ad valorem. polished sheet-iron remains at three cents per pound; women's and children's goods and all merinos, poplins, delaines composed wholly of worsted or wool imported in the gray or colored condition, ten per centum advalorem less than when in colors; wools and carpets of wool a reduction of five per cent. advalorem; rochelle salts, five cents per pound; salt-peter, refined or partially refined, three cents per pound; sal soda and soda ash one-fourth cent per pound. Under the present Internal Revenue law the fraction of a gallon of spirits pays the same tax as a gallon. An alteration has been made exempting from such tax less than half a gallon. Stamps on bank-checks are repealed.

Freshet in Maine.

BOSTON, April 15.—A dispatch from Kendall's Mills states that the ice on the Sebasticook River started today and carried away the dam just above the free bridge in Benton, and 150 feet of the dam occupied by HEATH & CROSBY'S Mill, carrying down a great number of logs, and damaging the mills. The central piers of both bridges are carried away, letting the spans drop into the river. The water is still rising, and fears are entertained for the safety of the railroad bridge at Winslow.

New Steam-Ship Line Between Philadelphia and Europe.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 15.—At a meeting of the Board of Trade in this city this evening, a paper was received from the International Steam-ship Company, stating that they had contracted with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to run a first-class line of steam-ships between Philadelphia and Europe, each capable of carrying 1,000 emigrants and 2,500 tons of cargo. They will be placed on the line this Summer.

Senator BROWNLOW, in a letter published in Tennessee, gives Senator WILSON, of Massachusetts, the chief credit for the prompt and favorable action of the Senate on the claim of the University of Tennessee for damages inflicted by the Union Army during the war.

During a quarrel on Sunday night, in Perth Amboy, N. J., between the wives of PATRICK BRADLEY and JOHN QUINN, of South Amboy, the husbands of the two women became involved, and QUINN struck BRADLEY on the head with a bottle, inflicting such injuries as to cause death within two hours. QUINN has escaped.

Mrs. ANNE CATHARINE RUTH has sued a St. Louis life insurance company, to recover $1,000, the amount of the policy of insurance on the life of her husband, ISAAC MILES RUTH. The policy was taken on the 17th of September, 1870, at Lawrence, Kansas, and RUTH died seven months afterward of poison.

The Coroner's inquest on the bodies of the two men who were killed by the falling of LAING'S store, on Eighth-street, in Philadelphia, returned a verdict, yesterday, that the deaths were accidental, and that the parties in charge of the work had not been guilty of any carelessness that could have caused the accident.

GEORGE RICE, son of JOHN RICE, of Philadelphia, has disappeared. His business was in mining and railroad contracting. On the 4th inst. he left for New-York on business, expecting to return on the Saturday following; but since that time nothing has been heard of him. It is feared that he has been waylaid and robbed.

An editorial correspondent of the Cleveland Herald writes forcibly of the nastiness of Philadelphia's public streets as compared even with those of New-York, and says that if pestilence does not settle as a permanent resident in Philadelphia it will not be for lack of invitation, for it is tendered the freedom of the city in every gutter.

In a recent letter Senator BROWNLOW claims that, notwithstanding his physical weakness, he discharges his duties as a Senator about as well as the majority, with the exception of speech-making; and he quietly adds: "We have a great deal too much talking now, in both Houses of Congress, and the country would lose nothing if more Congressmen were unable to talk."

The following is a list of the companies having insurance on the grain in the elevator destroyed by fire in Toledo, Ohio, on Saturday night: Hartford, of Hartford, Conn., $3,000; Amazon, of Cincinnati, $3,000; Home, of New-York, $6,500; Home, of Columbus, Ohio, $1,000; Franklin, of Philadelphia, $3,000; Royal, of England, $10,500; Liverpool, London and Globe, $7,000; Ætna, of Hartford, Conn., $8,400; Phœnix, of Brooklyn, N. Y., $1,000; The Insurance Company of North America, of Philadelphia, $3,000; Germania, of New-York, $3,000; Howard, of New-York, $1,300; Continental, $1,400; Pennsylvania, of Philadelphia, $1,000, and the Union, of Bangor, Me., $1,000.

Fifty coal-heavers at Cincinnati quit work yesterday and struck for $2 50 per day, and ordered others to stop. They dispersed at the order of the police.

The boiler of the Louisiana paper manufactory exploded yesterday. H. C. MAHON was killed, SANDY ROSS was severely, and Mrs. ROSHEARD slightly injured.

Mayor BROWN, of St. Louis, sent in a message to the Council asking authority to issue renewal bonds, amounting to $408,000, to meet the maturing indebtedness during the year.

The Mayor of St. Louis proposes that the city offer to sell to the United States Government the block of ground on Twelfth-street, between Market and Chestnut streets, as a site for a Custom-house and Post-office.

The Empire House, at Stockport, N. Y., was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss about $10,000. The building was insured for $4,800 in the following companies: Hartford, of Hartford, Conn., $2,000; Howard, of New-York, $2,000; Phœnix, of Brooklyn, $800. On the furniture there was an insurance of $1,000 in the Franklin, of Philadelphia, and $375 in the Phœnix, of Brooklyn.

ALBANY.

No Charter Yet Agreed On—The Miller Investigation—Our Corrupt Judges—Senator Hardenburgh Dying.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, April 15.—The Conference Committee on the charter held a meeting this morning, when it was agreed that the Senate amendment retaining Messrs. GREEN and VAN NORT should be stricken out. Some discussion was had on the amendment providing for the appointment of the Commissioners of the Department of Public Safety by two Judges of the Superior Court, and a proposition was made to increase the number of Commissioners to eight, and that the four Republicans be divided between the Administration and Anti-Administration parties. No conclusion was arrived at, however, and I have it on very good authority that this department will be left like the others, to be appointed as originally provided for in the charter. It is almost certain that the Committee will recommend the charter substantially as it was passed by the Assembly, and that the Senate will recede from all amendments affecting the integrity of the charter.

The evidence in the investigation of Superintendent MILLER is at last printed, and the Committee will report by Wednesday. Mr. TOBEY is understood to have written a report bearing strongly against MILLER, in accordance with the testimony, but a majority of the Committee declined to sign it, and the report will therefore be simply submitting the testimony for the consideration and action of the House.

The testimony in the case of the New-York Judges, it is said, will not be ready to lay on the desks of the members before the latter part of next week, meantime an effort will be made to discharge the Committee from the further consideration of the case and bring the subject before the House. The long delay in getting the testimony printed, so that the Committee can make their report, is looked upon with suspicion, and causes much comment unfavorable to the Committee as a whole, and particularly unfavorable to certain members of it. It is believed that a large amount of money has been or will be spent to prevent action adverse to the corrupt Judges, either by presenting an unfavorable report by the Committee, or by an adjournment sine die before any action is taken by the House. There are members of the Committee, however, who cannot be bribed, and they will see to it that the case is brought before the House in such a shape that the public can know who are and who are not desirous of screening the Judges.

Both Houses were in session to-night, with a quorum in each, but the business transacted was of little general interest.

Senator HARDENBURGH, of Ulster, who has been lying sick at the Congress Hall for six weeks, is failing rapidly this evening, and is not expected to live till morning. His disease is inflammatory rheumatism, with which he has been afflicted for years, and which has recently attacked the vital organs.

THE SOREHEADS.

Discussing the Question of Candidates—Adams, Trumbull, Davis, Groesbeck, Curtin, Greeley, Brown, and Others.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CINCINNATI, O., April 15.—The prevailing opinion here is that the Convention will certainly nominate candidates, and that the choice for President lies between CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, LYMAN TRUMBULL and Judge DAVIS. The partisans of the first and last named are actively at work, the Adams men, in some cases, coupling with him WM. W. GROESBECK, of Ohio, Democrat, for Vice-President. That combination will have some very active support from the Ohio Republican element, but the Democratic influence here, as elsewhere, seems to be on the side of the Davis and Curtin programme. As matters now stand here the nomination lies really between ADAMS and DAVIS. GRATZ BROWN and GREELEY are also mentioned, but have developed no considerable strength.

The leaders of the movement here claim that the Convention will result in the destruction of the Democracy and the formation of a new party, but at the same time they admit that the Convention must dodge some of the chief issues in its declaration of principles. It cannot say anything about revenue reform, and must be silent concerning Kuklux legislation, and confine itself chiefly to some remarks about GRANT'S relations and the New-York Custom-house affairs. It is true that Republicans admit that it is possible for this Convention to do something to make the situation critical, but I do not consider it is likely to do anything of the sort. There are as yet no surface indications of the coming turmoil, no delegates, so-called, having yet arrived, and none being expected until the latter part of next week.

A New Supply of Water for Boston.

From the Boston Commonwealth, April 13.

The passage, by the Legislature, of a bill to allow the City of Boston to take water from the Sudbury River, via Farm Pond, in Framingham, virtually gives for years an unlimited supply of the purest water to this city. The overflow of the river, which for a long time—even from the first settlement of the country—has been a detriment to all the farms on its banks, will now be utilized for a great city's needs, and the crops of the abuttors actually enhanced by diverting the wealth of water into this greatly-needed channel. During the Spring freshets the river level is higher than that of Farm Pond, and the flow in that direction is copious; but in the dry season the current tends in the opposite direction, and a dam in the connecting channel will be necessary to preserve the contents of the pond for the use of the city. Lake Cochituate is thirteen feet below the level of Farm Pond, which is a sheet of 190 acres, and the waters of the latter are to be temporarily conducted to the lower level by means of a ditch to Beaver Dam Brook—a distance of about one hundred yards—thence through the brook to the lake. Laborers were put to work dredging out the brook immediately on the Governor putting his signature to the bill, and the object of providing for the emergency that threatened—a water-famine—will be attained in sixty days. The work now progressing is for the purpose of meeting the immediate needs of this community, but eventually it is proposed to make the improvements permanent by conduits of solid masonry where artificial connections are made, and to increase the flowage area of the brook. The construction of a dam to raise the level of the river to that of the pond in the dry season, also, is not improbable, though a sufficient supply may be obtained by the working plans now in the hands of the engineers. The construction of a direct permanent conduit from Farm Pond to Chestnut Hill, as a relief to the present connection between Lake Cochituate and the reservoir, in case of accident, is also among the improvements contemplated by the City Water Board, and gates will be provided to turn the flow in the direction required at the shortest notice, the water from the river to be used only when the supply fails from the lake and pond.

THE NEW REPUBLIC.

A Preface to the Legislature's Adjournment—M. Thiers's Speech.

Paris (March 30) Correspondence of the London Standard.

The Chamber held its last sitting today before adjourning for three weeks, and the Government has so much time left to consider what course it will adopt in the matter of taxing raw material. M. THIERS, probably supposing the country would feel anxious if it remained so long without reading a speech of his, thought it right to avail himself of the opportunity to ventilate his oratory, and give the country his idea as to its real condition. His statement was for him unusually brief and concise, and, though you will not learn much from it, I must ask you to find room for this specimen of Presidential eloquence. The "homme eminent" held forth as follows:

"The Assembly will no doubt allow me to lay precisely before it a faithful picture of the condition of the country. As regards the financial position, those of our colleagues who are members of the Corps Legislatif need not be told that if our finances are not in apple-pie order it is certainly not our fault. I am very anxious to lay before you a Budget that shall be final. I am not myself a partisan of rash innovations; I greatly distrust new inventions in matters of administration, especially on the morrow of a social and political revolution as thorough as that of 1789. It has been my fate to take part in the discussion of a good many budgets. My opinion is that in order to have our finances in proper condition two things are required—first, a sound policy, which means no embarking in Mexican expeditions, and undertaking insane wars, such as the last; secondly, to refrain from unnecessary expenditure, (des depenses de luxe.) That is the source of true economy. The French financial administration is not a masterpiece. I am no blind worshiper of it. But it is not by reducing administrative expenses that we can restore order in our finances. As regards 1873, the Budget, so far as expenditure is concerned, will not materially differ from those of previous years. We will lay it before you as soon as possible—that is to say, a few days after the recess. Bear this in mind, gentleman, after you have voted the Budget for the present year, and that for 1873, we shall have a real financial equilibrium. If savings are possible we shall heartily accept them; we will only try to check you when retrenchment might entail disorganization. Our interest, no doubt, is to lessen our charges, but our great object is to create fresh sources of revenue. Do not forget the great example of America. She raised her burden of taxation in proportion with their charges. Real courage consists in bringing up your receipts to the level of your expenditure. We must be sober and serious in our ideas if we would be so in our conduct. Europe is astounded at the courage with which you support burdens which you have not entailed on the country. We have not wasted a single hour. On your reassembling we will lay the Budget of 1873 before you. As a compensation I will ask your committees to send in their reports on the new taxes. I tell them, 'Have an opinion of your own, and let us know what it is, and the Chamber will judge between you and ourselves.' The Budget of 1873 will exhibit a balance more real than it ever was, with an army and a navy in first-rate condition, and a real sinking fund of 200,000,000. It is necessary that Europe and the country should know that. Permit me now to add a few words. Political parties find it a paying speculation to keep up a state of alarm; it is devoid of foundation. Order is in no danger, thanks to the fidelity of the army—for the army belongs to no party, but to the law, and the law means yourselves, gentlemen, and the Government which your votes will establish. There are two things which I think cannot be too loudly proclaimed—that political parties are incorrigible, and that they are powerless." [The Left applauded this; the Right preserved a freezing demeanor.] "I do not want anything to be inferred from the words that have fallen from me, but a feeling of profound security. The Government is thoroughly devoted to its duties; it will use its best endeavors to keep on good terms with the Assembly. We are deeply desirous to maintain peace. And peace is not endangered. Neither is it true to say—as has been done in the Assembly and in the Press—that this country has no alliances, and that France is isolated. The present state of Europe is everything that could be desired after such an unprecedented commotion. [A member here cried out, "Who are your allies?"] What now exists is no longer Europe or France as 1815 had made them. Europe respects us too much to trouble itself about the form of our Government. All she asks of us and of our neighbors is to preserve order at home. With order founded on law you will meet at the hands of Europe kindness and esteem. Europe considers you as honest men, who are doing their duty. Europe knows that we are reorganizing and reconstructing the French army. I have never ceased to say that I am bent on maintaining peace (que je veux le paix.) No, at the close of my career—I say so on my honor—I have no other object in view than the reconstruction of France, but it could not be expected that I should not reconstruct the army. People talk of revenge. The only revenge is to reconstruct our forces, and to take up the attitudes which France should always have. Two things raise us in the eyes of the world—we have the glory of having done our duty, of having re-established discipline and learning (sic) in the army. Yes, the army is teaching itself. I confess that when I heard it insulted the other day I lost that calmness which I should always possess." [M. JEAN BRUNET here exclaimed: "I have served for forty years, and I am not likely to insult the army."] "I don't care whether the honorable member has served forty-four years in the army; I have served my country for more than forty years. Everybody is struck with the discipline of the army and its good appearance. The world has remarked the courage with which France supported woes which might have crushed her. But I repeat it, the great thing is to find new taxes. It has been said that dangerous alliances were being formed abroad. It is false. What is true is that Europe keeps on the reserve. No Power is inclined to enter into an engagement with or against any other. The final success will be for those who will be wise and know how to behave. You may confidently tell your constituents, gentlemen, that neither order nor peace run the slightest danger."

The speech was vociferously applauded by the Left; only a very few members of the Right gave a feeble bravo.

The Wrongs of Jurymen.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Believing that you are ready to endeavor to bring about a redress of wrongs, I address you on a topic, that if not dear, is at least very near to many a man in this community. I allude to the unfortunate beings known as jurymen. They have no rights that Court, lawyers, plaintiff or defendant care much, if aught for. They must forsake everything, business go neglected, and loss to themselves ensue, to try the often petty squabbles of two fools, who would never ask for a jury if they had to pay one-quarter of the loss the jury sustain in leaving their own affairs neglected, to come and try their disputes. Now, there must be juries, of course, and jurymen to sit, but why is not a juryman entitled to a fair rate of pay—say five dollars for each man for each case tried, if not over a day 's occupied by the trial; if more than a day is used, five dollars per day, loser to pay same, If people don't want a jury, they can have referees, or the Judge will try without a jury; but I insist it is only fair that if twelve men must be taken from their homes or occupations to sit in a jury-box for a fortnight or more, that they are at least entitled to some compensation approaching decency and adequacy, and five dollars a case, or per day, is far below the loss jurymen sustain on an average. Jurymen are called to do justice to others; why should they not have a little themselves? Another abuse is that some jurymen are summoned every year and some every few months, while there are thousands of citizens here in New-York that are no more exempt than we are, that have not served for five or ten years. I do not speak for myself alone, I speak the sentiment of every juryman I have ever spoken to on the subject. It is time this wrong was redressed, and that the drawings be equalized, and jurymen paid for their services. At present it is only a mockery. Another benefit to result would be that the calendars would be relieved of many cases that would be arbitrated, or tried before a referee; and cases that really need juries would be reached far sooner, and justice be expedited.

AN UNFORTUNATE JURYMAN.

NEW-YORK, Thursday, April 11, 1872.

Woods Burning in Ohio—Farms Swept Over and Houses and Children Burned.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 15.—There were several destructive fires in the vicinity of this City on Saturday. Four frame houses a short distance west of the city were destroyed, the fire having been communicated from the adjoining woods. A church three miles west of the city was burned; several farms were swept over by fire, and dwellings, barns, grain, farming utensils, hay, fences, &c., entirely consumed.

The loss by the Perrysburg fire will reach $20,000; insurance, $11,000.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Reassembling of the Board of Arbitration—The Cases Presented—English Press Comments.

GENEVA, April 15.—The Board of Arbitration, under the Treaty of Washington, reassembled today, and held a brief session. Count SCLOPIS presided. The counter cases of the British and American Governments were presented, and the Board adjourned. The proceedings were marked by no special feature.

LONDON, April 15.—The metropolitan journals this morning renew discussion of the Alabama claims question, and the presentation of the counter cases at Geneva today from their various political standpoint. The majority are decided in expression of the opinion that the Ministry must adhere to the position taken against submission to arbitration on the indirect claims presented in the American case.

It is stated that the steamer Republic, which sailed from New York on Saturday, is to bring important dispatches from the Government at Washington on this subject.

What Was Done—The Question in the British House of Commons.

GENEVA, April 15—Evening.—The sitting of the tribunal for the settlement of the Alabama claims opened at 9½ this morning, and terminated at noon. The statement that Count SELOPIS presided was incorrect. None of the five arbitrators were present. Great Britain and the United States only were represented, the former by Lord TENTERDEN and Messrs. TAYLOR and BERNARD, and the latter by Messrs. J. BANCROFT DAVIS, CALEB CUSHING and CHARLES C. BEAMAN. The official proceedings were confined to the delivery of the documents to the Secretary of the Tribunal, who will transmit them to the arbitrators.

LONDON, April 15.—In the House of Commons, to-night, Mr. GLADSTONE, in reply to inquiries from Mr. DISRAELI and others, again assured the members that the note accompanying the British counter-case protested against the jurisdiction of the arbitrators at Geneva over claims for indirect damages. Mr. GLADSTONE promised to lay the documents before the House to-morrow.

Consular Convention With the United States—International Copyright.

BERLIN, April 15.—The Reichstag today passed to a third reading the bill ratifying the Consular Convention between the Republic of the United States and the German Empire.

Deputy GEORGES complained of the insecurity of literary property, and asked if nothing could be done to protect the rights of authors.

Minister DELBRUCK replied, regretting that it was not in the power of the Government to prevent bookpiracy, because of the lack of the necessary legislation.

The Recent Negotiations not Satisfactory—Trouble Feared.

LONDON, April 15.—Reports are current here that troubles have grown out of the recent diplomatic negotiations between France and Germany. The relations between the two countries are said to be again in so critical a condition that grave complications may be apprehended.

SPAIN.

A General Rising Announced—French Internationalists Arrested.

LONDON, April 15.—Advices from Madrid announce a general armed rising of malcontents throughout Spain. The same dispatches state that the Government is fully prepared and competent to suppress the troubles.

MADRID, April 15.—The authorities of the town of Lerida, the capital of the province of that name, have arrested two French Internationals who are believed to have been actively connected with the movements against the Government. Documents were found upon the persons of the prisoners, which, in view of the late conspiracies on the border, are deemed to be of a most important character.

VIOLENCE IN THE SOUTH.

Desperate Attack on a Jail in Kentucky—Trial of William Lowry in South Carolina.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15.—A desperate attempt was made by a mob of twenty-seven disguised men, on Thursday morning, to capture the jail at Clinton, Hickman County, Ky., but the jailor resisted, and the citizens gathering, drove off the mob. Great excitement prevailed in the county, and the jail is now heavily guarded. The murderer CUNNINGHAM is confined there, and two men charged with rape; the mob asserted they wanted to lynch the latter, but the citizens believe they were confederates of CUNNINGHAM seeking to release him. The Governor has been asked by the authorities to send 100 stand of arms and call out the militia of Hickman County.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 15.—In the United States Court, today, evidence was heard in the case of WM. LOWREY, charged with conspiracy under the Enforcement act. The case will probably go to the jury to-night.

MILES MCCULLOCH, of York County, pleaded guilty of conspiracy.

Severe Storm on Lake Michigan—Loss of a Vessel.

MILWAUKEE, April 15.—A very severe storm commenced about midnight and raged with fury until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The telegraph lines were prostrated at several places. A SAMPLE OF "REFORM" LEGISLATION.

The Successors of the Erie Ring at Albany—What Mr. Vanderbilt Can Do With The Legislature—The People's Rights Bought and Sold—King Vanderbilt Proposes to Take the City for a New Railroad.

Introduced by unanimous consent by Mr. ROBERTSON—read twice and referred to the Committee on Railroads—reported favorably from said Committee, and committed to the Committee of the Whole.

AN ACT to incorporate the New-York City Rapid Transit Company, and to authorize the said Company to construct and operate an under-ground railway in the City of New-York.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT and such other persons as he shall associate with himself are hereby created a body corporate and politic, by the name of the New-York City Rapid Transit Company; the said corporation shall continue for one hundred years from the passage of this act, and shall be located in the City of New-York; and the capital stock shall be $12,000,000, divided into one hundred and twenty thousand shares of $100 each.

SEC. 2. The said corporators may organize the management of the business and officers of said corporation by a board of thirteen directors, to be elected annually by the stockholders; the first election of said directors shall be held in the City of New-York, on a day and at a place to be determined by the said corporators, and they shall give notice thereof to the shareholders in two newspapers published in the City of New-York, daily for fifteen days preceding the day of such election, and the said corporators or such of them as shall attend in person, shall appoint two tellers to conduct the election and declare the result; and the directors then chosen by the stockholders shall hold their office for the term of one year and until others are chosen in their places; and until such election, the business of said corporation shall be managed by the said corporators and their agents.

SEC. 3. The corporation hereby created shall possess all the powers and privileges, and be subject to all the provisions of the act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations, and to regulate the same," passed April 2, 1850, and the several acts amendatory thereof and additional thereto, except so far as the provisions of the said acts are modified by or are inconsistent with the provisions of this act; and the said corporation is hereby authorized and empowered to make, construct and maintain a tunnel, and to construct, operate and use therein a double track railway, and the necessary sidings, and to convey passengers, freight and property in cars propelled by steam or other power for compensation under and through the soil beneath certain streets, avenues, squares and grounds in the City of New-York, as hereinafter specified; but said corporation shall have no right to acquire the use or occupancy of any of the streets or public places in the City of New-York under the provisions of the said acts, or by any agreement or grant of the City authorities, except such use or occupancy as is granted or provided for in this act, and except such temporary rights and privileges during the period of constructing said tunnel and railway authorized in this act as the proper authorities may grant to said Company to facilitate such construction.

SEC. 4. The tunnel and railway hereby authorized to be constructed and enjoyed by said corporation shall follow, as nearly as possible, the line of the streets, avenues, courses and places named as follows: Commencing at a point on the easterly line of Broadway, in the City Hall Park, thence easterly and underground, passing in front of the old City Hall, and thence to Centre-street; thence under and across said Centre-street to City Hall-place, thence through said City Hall-place, by tunnel or covered way, or on a line east or west of City Hall-place, by tunnel or open cut, to Pearl-street; thence in like manner across said Pearl-street north-easterly in a curved line to or near Mulberry-street, at a point in said street between Bayard and Park streets; thence northerly through said Mulberry-street, by tunnel, or east or west thereof in the same general direction, by tunnel or open cut, to Bleecker-street; thence northerly under and across said Bleecker-street in a straight line as near as practicable, by tunnel or open cut, to Lafayette-place; thence northerly under said Lafayette-place to Astor-place; thence under and across said Astor-place and Eighth-street to the northerly side of said Eighth-street; thence across the block between said Eighth-street and Ninth-street, and easterly of St. Ann's Church on said Eighth-street to Fourth-avenue; thence northerly under the said Fourth-avenue to Fourteenth-street; thence under and across said Fourteenth-street and said Fourth-avenue to Union-square; thence northerly under said Union square to Seventeenth-street at Fourth-avenue; thence northerly under the said Fourth avenue to or near Fifty-ninth-street. The said corporation may make on the route aforesaid the necessary connections, turnouts, switches and other conveniences for the proper working and accommodation of said railway, and returning from Centre-street may pass in the rear of the City Hall to Broadway, and may make connection with the New-York and Harlem Railroad at or near Fifty-ninth-street, and with any other steam railroads, in such manner as may be deemed best by the said corporation. The said company may also construct and use a branch from the said main line at or near Fifty-ninth-street, passing under Fifty-eighth or Fifty-ninth-street, and under the Central Park, to intersect the track of the New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company.

SEC. 5. For the purpose of making, constructing and operating the said tunnel and railway, said corporation is hereby authorized and empowered, to enter upon and underneath the several streets, avenues, squares, public places and lands hereinbefore specified, and into and upon the soil of the same, to construct and maintain said tunnel and railway along the route and to the points herein specified and contemplated; such tunnel and railway to be constructed in the most thorough manner and upon the most approved plans for lighting, ventilating and draining and of sufficient dimensions and number of tracks for the purposes of said railway, and for the convenience of the public travel, and at such depth below the surface, and in such manner as effectually to prevent any interference with the surface of said streets, avenues, squares or grounds, or the use of the same, with such exceptions as are provided for in this act; and except, also, that during the progress of construction it shall be lawful to make such excavations and openings in said streets, avenues, squares and grounds under which said tunnel and railway shall be constructed, or over which said railway tracks shall be laid, as shall be necessary from time to time; and in all cases the surface and pavements of said streets, avenues, squares and grounds over said tunnel and railway, shall be restored to the condition in which they were before such excavations were made, as near as possible. And it shall be lawful for said corporation to construct and maintain openings along the route of said tunnel or railway, for light and ventilation to be six feet in diameter, surmounted with a substantial iron railing four feet in height, set in a stone coping. Such openings to be placed at intervals of not less than twenty feet, except that none shall be located at the intersection of streets or avenues. It is hereby provided, that the said corporation shall be liable to the owner or lessee of any building or property, for any direct injury thereto, caused by the construction of such railway and tunnel.

SEC. 6. The said corporation shall have the right to acquire the title to and hold such real estate, or interest therein, as may be necessary to enable it to construct and operate said tunnel and railways as herein provided, and to construct and maintain the proper platforms, stations and buildings of said corporation at such points along the route as may be most convenient and suitable for the ingress and egress of passengers and freight, and necessary for the operation of the railway, and for proper communication between said tunnel and platforms and said stations and buildings, and in case it cannot agree with the owner or owners of such real estate or interest, for the purchase or use thereof, it may acquire a title to the same in the manner specified in the acts hereinbefore referred to, except in any of the proceedings for any of the purposes authorized by this section, it shall not be necessary that the petition to the Court shall make any allegation of or reference to any incorporations, capital stocks, surveys, maps, or the filing of any certificate of location; but whenever it shall be necessary for the said railway, turnouts, platforms or stations, to take and use for the purpose of operating the same, any public grounds, parks, or places, no compensation shall be awarded or demanded for the same, but in all cases the use of the aforesaid streets, avenues, squares, grounds and public places, and the right of way under and through the same, for the purpose of a tunnel and railway, as herein authorized and provided, shall be considered and is hereby declared to be a public use, consistent with the uses for which the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the said City hold said streets, avenues and public places. But no opening in any public grounds, parks, or places shall be more than 500 feet in length nor more than 100 feet in width.

SEC. 7. Whenever the route herein specified and contemplated for the construction of said tunnel and railway shall intersect with or cross or coincide with any horse railway tracks now occupying the surface of said streets and avenues, the said horse railway tracks shall, if practicable, be carried over said openings upon temporary bridges or structures, and such temporary bridges and structures shall be constructed in such manner as not to interfere with the practicable operation or working of such street railways; and upon the completion of said tunnel and such portions of the route thereof, where such changes of the horse railway tracks may be made, the same shall be restored as near as practicable, to the condition in which they were previous to the construction of said tunnel; and all such bridges and structures and restoration of tracks shall be made at the proper cost and charges of this corporation. But in restoring the tracks of any such horse railway, a space of twelve feet shall remain between the tracks at the centre of the street or avenue, and the required change in the location of the tracks of any horse railway is hereby authorized and directed.

SEC. 8. Said tunnels and railways shall be exclusively for the use and purposes of said railway company, and it shall not be lawful for any person or persons other than a public officer in the execution of his duty as such, with his agents and assistants to enter or pass through the same or any portion thereof on foot, or in any other way than in the proper cars of this corporation, provided for that purpose, without the consent of said corporation, under penalty of $50 for each offense, to be recovered by this corporation. And the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, and the officers of the Corporation of the City of New-York, are hereby prohibited from giving any permission to any other person, body or corporation, to do any of the acts or things hereby authorized, or to hinder, delay or embarrass the construction or operation of said tunnel and railway and other things as herein authorized. But nothing herein contained shall prevent the Corporation of the City of New-York, or the officers of any department thereof, from entering the said tunnel for the purpose of repairing or constructing any sewer or water-main, or other public work; or any gas company from laying or repairing its mains therein, not, however, interfering unnecessarily with the movement of trains or the business of said company.

SEC. 9. It shall be lawful for the said company to lay a temporary rail or tramway, from the route of the said tunnel through Baxter-street to and across Chatham-street to Roosevelt-street, and thence through Roosevelt street to the East River, to be operated by horse-power, for the purpose of removing earth and transporting materials during the continuance and progress of the said work. Any alteration of the surface of the street shall be restored by the company upon the completion of the work, or when the use of the said street for the purposes aforesaid shall be no longer required by the said company.

SEC. 10. The said corporation shall be and is hereby authorized to collect and receive for the transportation of passengers the following fare, to wit: for one person for any distance on said railway the sum of ten cents.

SEC. 11. Said tunnel shall be constructed at such depth below the surface of the streets or avenues as will avoid any interference with or changes in the water mains of the Croton Aqueduct Board, except such changes as may be necessary for the proper construction of said railway and for public convenience, and such necessary changes in said mains, and all changes, additions and alterations which may be made necessary in the sewers by the construction of said tunnel and railway, shall be made under the direction and supervision of the chief engineer of the Board of Public Works, but at the proper cost and charges of this corporation.

SEC. 12. It shall be lawful for the said company to change or elevate the grade of any street or avenue through which the said tunnel or railway shall pass at any point where the grade line of said railway at the level of the rails shall not be at least four feet above tide-water mark; and the said company hereby created shall be liable to the owners or lessees of adjacent property for injury caused by such changes or elevation of the grade.

SEC. 13. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 14. This act shall take effect immediately.

The Georgia Bonds—The Subcommittee of Inquiry in This City.

The Subcommittee, consisting of Col. THOS. J. SIMMONS, Chairman, and Messrs. J. J. HALL and GARRETT MCMILLAN, of the Georgia Legislative Committee, who are investigating the financial affairs of the administration of Ex-Gov. BULLOCK, of Georgia, have been pursuing their inquiries in this City since Friday last. Yesterday they were engaged at their new quarters, at No. 79 Wall-street, and were kept busy all day in registering the bonds and the names of the holders. The statements of each holder are made in private, none of the testimony being given to the Press, but the points upon which bondholders and others are examined are in relation to the sale, hypothecation, and issue of the State of Georgia bonds, issued and indorsed since July, 1868, and the indorsement of railroad bonds issued from the same date. Since Friday morning, the Subcommittee have registered bonds amounting to about $2,000,000, and they will remain in the City until the 25th inst., to give all holders in this vicinity an opportunity of registering. It is claimed that between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 worth of bonds have been issued by Mr. BULLOCK, by far the greater part of which are owned here, but how much of the issue, if any, was in violation of any of the statutes, the Committee do not pretend to know. Whether or not the holders of the certificates, who bought them in good faith, will be effected by the investigation, the Committee do not hazard an opinion, as all depends upon the action of the Legislature in their report. Many of the witnesses examined thus far are brokers and bankers, who have dealt in the bonds, the heaviest dealers being probably, BUDGE, SCHIFF & CO., who were examined yesterday. They testified that they bought from HENRY CLEWS & CO., the legal and proper financial agents of Georgia in this City, and who will be examined soon.

The railroad companies aided by the bonds alleged to have been wrongly issued are State roads, all incorporated within a few years past, as follows: The South Georgia and Florida; Macon and Brunswick; Brunswick and Albany; Cartersville and Van Wert; Bainbridge, Cuthbert and Columbia; Alabama and Chattanooga.

The Subcommittee desire to invite all who are interested in the matter to present themselves, and are anxious to hear from Mr. BULLOCK, should he consent to appear.

Andy Garvey's Property.

The case of ISADOR WORMSLEY vs. ISABELLA GARVEY, to compel the performance of a contract for the sale of property on Madison-avenue, came up before Judge BARNARD, in Supreme Court, Special Term, yesterday. It appears that at the time when ANDREW J. GARVEY was about to take his departure for foreign lands, he transferred the bulk of his property, for a mere nominal consideration, to his brother JOHN, who subsequently conveyed it to Mrs. ANDREW J. GARVEY, the defendant in this suit. Mrs. GARVEY contracted to sell sixteen lots on Madison-avenue, between Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh streets, to the plaintiff for $215,000, that sum being admittedly from ten to fifteen per cent. below the market value. The matter was permitted to rest until the expiration of six months, the defendant refusing to take any steps to assure plaintiff that the provisions of the insolvent act could not apply to invalidate the sale. At the expiration of the six months, however, when the insolvent act could no longer apply, plaintiff demanded the deed, which was refused, and hence the present suit to enforce specific performance. An adjournment was asked for on the part of defendant, on the ground that Mrs. GARVEY, who was a material witness, was sick, and counsel produced a physician's certificate to that effect. On behalf of plaintiff, it was contended that Mrs. GARVEY was not a necessary witness; that the whole business was done through JOHN GARVEY, as her attorney, and that the latter could give all proof as to the nature of the contract.

Judge BARNARD said circumstances might be such as to make Mrs. GARVEY a necessary witness, and he was therefore disposed to grant the adjournment. Counsel for plaintiff then asked that, if the adjournment was granted, it be made a condition that defendant produce ANDREW J. GARVEY as a witness, or that they give information where he might be subpœnaed.

Judge BARNARD declined to impose the condition demanded, and peremptorily adjourned the case to Monday next, saying that in the meantime counsel might take the testimony of Mrs. GARVEY.

Custom-House Usage—Secretary Boutwell on Goods for Immediate Transportation.

Secretary BOUTWELL sent the following letter to Collector ARTHUR in relation to imported goods intended for transportation to the interior, and, under the law recently adopted, allowed to go to their destination immediately, and without delay or appraisement by the Custom-house authorities at this port:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10.

SIR: By reference to the twenty-fourth section of the act of July 14, 1870, it will be seen that where it shall appear by the invoice or bill of lading, and by the manifest, that goods of the character mentioned therein are intended for certain ports in the interior, they are allowed to go forward to their destination without appraisement. The question has been presented to this Department, whether the production of all three of the papers mentioned is necessary as a prerequisite to allowing the goods the benefit of this law. It is stated by certain merchants at Philadelphia, that if they are required to produce the bill of lading before entry, it will practically operate to deprive them of the privileges of this law, as the invoices arrive by steamer prior to the one on which the goods arrive, and reach them in time for them to secure their return to New-York by the time the goods arrive; whereas, the bill of lading comes on the same vessel with the goods, and by the time it can be sent to Philadelphia and returned to New-York the forty-eight hours allowed by law will have expired, and the goods have gone to General Order store. In my opinion the law should be construed so as to require solely the production of the invoice as a basis for the entry of the goods under said section of the law; or, in the absence of the invoice, showing such destination, the bill of lading and manifest; and that if the invoice shows the destination of the goods to be Philadelphia, or the bill of lading and manifest, they should be allowed to go forward under said act. You will please, hereafter, apply these instructions to the practice at your port. I am, very respectfully,

GEO. S. BOUTWELL.

The Case of Hayes, the Alleged Murderer, Adjourned.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, before Judge BEDFORD, the case of MICHAEL HAYES, charged with the murder of PATRICK O'DONNELL, was called on for trial, but in the absence of LOUIS C. A. ROCHESTER, the principal witness, it was adjourned to the 6th of May. It will be remembered that the offense charged was committed fifteen years ago, and in 1864, while Mayor HALL was District-Attorney, the prisoner presented himself for trial, and was admitted to bail. For some unaccountable reason no legal proceedings were then taken in the matter, and recently HAYES was rearrested and indicted by the Grand Jury. His counsel claim that the prosecution is the result of malice, that he was a prominent Reformer in the last election, and by his conduct in the contest, he secured the ill-will of some prominent politicians in the Seventh Ward. Yesterday an application was made for his release on nominal bail, but the decision in the matter was adjourned to this morning.

CITY ASSESSMENTS.

Report of the Corporation Counsel in Relation to Local Improvement Taxes—The Proposed Bill.

The following is an abstract of the report of the counsel to the Corporation to the Assembly in answer to its resolution of 11th March last in reference to the defects in the present laws relating to the levying of assessments for local improvements. Mr. O'GORMAN says:

The power to assess upon the owners of the lots adjacent to a street regulated, graded, paved, &c., the whole or any part of the expense of such improvement is based on the theory that such improvements cause special benefit to land adjacent thereto. In 1824 an ordinance was passed that whenever the carriage-way of any of the streets shall be repaired at the expense of individual owners, and the work approved by the Street Commissioners, such streets shall forever thereafter be repaired at the expense of the Corporation.

The system recognized by this ordinance, was supposed to be thenceforth the settled and permanent practice in local improvements. This practice continued until about 1858, when Belgian pavement, &c., began to be laid on streets previously paved, and the Common Council, provided that they should be performed wholly or in part, at the expense of the adjacent owners. This action of the Common Council was opposed by the property-owners, but the power of the Common Council so to order was, however, upheld in the case of Rhinelander vs. Mayor, &c., 24 How. Prac. Rep., 304, decided in 1862, where one-half the expense of Belgian pavement laid down in 1860, amounting to over $38,000, was imposed on the owners of adjacent lots, and in was even doubted by the Court whether the Common Council had the power to impose such expense upon the citizens at large.

Since that time many streets which had been previously paved at the expense of the adjacent owners, have been repaved with wooden or other pavement, and the whole or part of the expense imposed on the adjacent owners. This abandonment of the formerly established practice has been very unpopular among the owners of real estate. Dissatisfied at the heavy charges cast upon them, property-owners obtained from the Legislature, in 1858, the passage of an act entitled "An act in relation to frauds in assessments for local improvements in the City of New-York," chapter 338. By this act a means was afforded for vacating assessments, not only on the ground of "fraud," but also because of any "legal irregularity" in the proceeding to assess or to collect the assessed amount. It is under this act that the proceedings since then have been instituted, which have resulted in throwing the expense of various local improvements on the citizens at large. The ground of these proceedings has been, in almost every case, not any fraudulent act in the laying or collecting the assessment, but some "legal irregularity," the commission of which did not add to the expense of the improvement.

As to the objection that all the members of the Board of Revision and Correction should have participated in its meetings, it was decided in November, 1865, in the case of PALMER, (31 How., R. R. 42,) that the presence of the three members of the Board was necessary to render its action valid. Since that time the Board has been governed by the ruling of the Court.

As to the objection that sales of real estate for non-payment of assessment had been, since 1849, made by virtue of a general ordinance, directing such sales to be made by the Clerk of Arrears, whereas such sales should have been ordered by special ordinance or resolution enacted as to each case, the Court so held, in re Tappan, decided in 1867, in the General Term First Judicial Department.

The objection as to crosswalks, to the effect that the construction of crosswalks was not specially included in the terms of the ordinance directing pavement of streets, the Court held to be good, in re ASTOR's petition. The objection that no general plan of the sewerage district had been adopted and filed by the Croton Aqueduct Board, previous to the making of the contract for construction of sewers within the district, was held by the Court of Appeals to be valid, in re WILLIAM T. BLODGETT, decided in 1870. As to the object on the ground of defective publication of notice of the ordinance or resolution directing the improvement, the City Charter of 1857, section 7, provided that such ordinances should not be passed or adopted until notice thereof had been published two days in all the newspapers employed by the Corporation.

The Legislature from time to time made various changes in the manner of appointment of Corporation papers. In weekly papers, publication of notices was not made because of the delay which would ensue. The Court of Appeals, however, held such publication necessary in the case of DOUGLASS, decided June, 1871. The objection that by the combination of patented work with unpatented work in the same contract, competition was prevented, was adjudged by the Court of Appeals to be well taken. There was no power vested in the Supreme Court to modify or reduce an assessment. To remedy this defect, a bill was prepared by Mr. O'GORMAN, and its provisions incorporated in section 27, chapter 383, Laws 1870.

REMEDY PROPOSED.

Mr. O'GORMAN says that streets once regulated, paved and at the expense of the adjacent owners, should, in his opinion, be thereafter kept in repair at the expense of the City; that wooden or patented pavement should not be laid unless at the desire of the owners of three-fourths, in lineal feet, of the land along the line of improvement; that no objection because of the non-publication of notice should be received, and the provisions of law relative to such publication should be directory instead of mandatory. In case of any defect the Municipal authorities should have power to cause the assessment to be set aside, and a reassessment laid.

To avoid the necessity for successive reassessments, provision should be made that upon the discovery of an error or irregularity sufficient to invalidate the entire assessment, a judgment may be made vacating or modifying the whole list, and providing for an entire new assessment over all the property chargeable.

Mr. O'GORMAN submits with his report a draft act to meet the existing difficulties. Its chief object is to relieve property owners from assessments for "local improvements" when any actual fraud has been committed, and to protect the citizens at large from being made to pay for such local improvements, on the ground of the failure of the civic authorities to comply with directions of law, which are immaterial and technical.

The first section of the proposed act provides that no assessment for paving, grading, sewering, &c., shall be deemed void on account of any failure to publish any notice or ordinance, or because the general plan for sewerage mentioned in chapter 381 of the laws of 1865, has not been filed, or because of any deviation from that plan; nor shall any assessment for paving with patented pavement be deemed void because the work, or any portion of it, was not subject to public competition. Section two provides that if any error has been made in assessing for any street improvement, affecting the whole assessment list, the Supreme Court at Special Term, may, on motion of the Corporation Counsel, vacate the assessment list, and order a new one to be made. But no assessment shall be vacated until the new assessment shall be confirmed and entered as provided by existing laws. By section three it is provided that whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been ordered to be vacated, and a new assessment ordered, the Controller shall ascertain and certify to the Board of Assessors the amount of expenditure actually incurred by the City on the improvement, and thereupon a new assessment of the amount shall be made on the lands intended to be benefited, in the usual way. All proceedings relative to making the new assessment shall be paid by the City. No lands upon which an assessment has been made shall be again assessed for the same improvement. If payments have been made greater than the amount warranted by the assessment, the surplus shall be refunded to the person who has so paid. Section four provides that the power now vested in the Common Council relative to assessments, shall be vested in a Board of Revision and Correction of Assessments, composed of the Controller, Corporation Counsel and Recorder of the City. Section 5 forbids any assessment to be made for repaving streets which have heretofore been paved, and the expense paid for by assessment, except such assessment as may hereafter be imposed under sections 2 and 3 of this act. Section 6 declares that no patented pavement shall be laid unless upon the petition of three-fourths of the owners of the property, in lineal feet, fronting on the portion of the avenue or street proposed to be so paved. Section 7 empowers the Court or Judge, in proceedings brought pursuant to chapter 338 of the Laws of 1858, to examine upon the merits all objections alleged in the petition, and to consider and decide upon all questions of expenditure, assessment, performance of the work, &c., and to give judgment thereon. All objections may be disregarded by the Court unless it shall appear that the petitioner has sustained actual damage in consequence of the act, neglect or omission alleged in said petition.

The Fire-Alarm Bill.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, before Judge BRADY, an application was noticed for a mandamus to compel Controller GREEN to pay to CHARLES T. CHESTER the sum of $198,000, being the alleged balance due for putting up the fire-alarm telegraph. Mr. STRAHAN appeared on behalf of the Controller, and asked for a few days' delay, so that he might have time to thoroughly examine into the grounds of this claim. The original estimate, he said, was for $400,000, and the bill was subsequently increased to over $800,000, over $600,000 of which had been paid. Under the circumstances of the large increase beyond the original estimate, he thought the Controller would be censurable if he paid the amount now claimed without careful inquiry. He did not mean, without examination, to impugn the justice of the claim, but he thought a fair opportunity for such examination should be afforded.

Mr. HUTCHINS, on behalf of the claimant, said the matter had now lain dormant over five months, and during that time not a whisper came from any quarter of any grounds for impeaching the validity and justice of these claim, and the Controller should be compelled to pay, or give the Court satisfactory reasons for not doing so.

Mr. STRAHAN replied that, though the matter had been in abeyance some five months, it was only very recently that counsel to the Controller had been put in possession of papers disclosing how the increase in the bill had arisen, and time had not elapsed since to allow of their careful examination. If, on examination, these papers are satisfactory, the Controller will pay; if otherwise, the question will have to be submitted to the Court.

Judge BRADY asked when Mr. STRAHAN would be ready to proceed with the argument, and the latter replied on Thursday or Friday next.

The case was therefore set down for Friday.

MONDAY, April 15—P. M.

The price of Gold advanced today to 110⅞@110½, and maintained itself steadily. The market was better supplied with Coin at the advance, and the carrying rate rose from 3 and 4 ⅌ cent. to 7 ⅌ cent. interest.

The market for Sterling Exchange was also a shade firmer, though without special activity; prime bills ruling 109⅝@109¾ for sixty days sight, and 110@110⅛ for short.

There was a general advance in all varieties of the Public Funds, with more transactions than usual of late. A full half ⅌ cent. is added to the price all round, and even then scarcity continues. The long-dated Gold Sixes of 1881, reached 116. Five-Twenties of 1867, sold at 113½@113⅝@113¾, the Five ⅌ cent. Ten-forties cleared 109¼, and 110⅛ was bid for the New Fives of 1881. The Currency Sixes shared in the inquiry, and reached 115½.

Money was not specially difficult at any time during the day. Down to 2 o'clock Coin interest was generally paid, with some business at a cost of 1-32 ⅌ cent. in addition to legal interest about that hour, and from this rate it grew easier, closing early and with 6 to 7 ⅌ cent. interest only. It is impossible to trace any effect of the rates of Money today, at least in the way of depressing the Stock market.

The business of the Stock Exchange was generally dull, but there was a gradual and pretty well distributed increase of strength through the speculative list, North-western was the stock particularly attacked by the Bears, as on Saturday Afternoon, and it moved against them from 79½, at the beginning, to 80¾, closing at 80½. Pacific Mail also recovered from 62¼@62¾, at the opening, to 63⅝; and Western Union, selling first at 73½, reached 74¼, and closed 74⅛@74¼. Similar change took place in most of the usually active list, New-York Central selling at 98⅛@97⅞@98⅜@98¼; Lake Shore, 95⅞@95½@96⅜@96¼; Rock Island, 111½@112⅛@112¼; Ohios, 48@47⅞@48⅜@48¼; Union Pacifics, 37⅞@37½@38⅛@38, and C. C. & I. C., 32⅞@32⅝@33⅛@32¾. Erie was dull and lower, with lower quotations by a half ⅌ cent. from London, selling here at 64⅜@63⅞@64⅛@64¼. The Quicksilver speculation opened firm, declined, and advanced again over opening prices—38@37½@38½ the Common stock; 51@50½@51½@51¾ the Preferred.

The investment Stocks were firmer, with an advance in Panama to 95½, Chicago and Alton to 118½, and Pittsburg to 92. New Jersey Central, however, was easier at 109½; the others steady.

There was some improvement in Tennessee Bonds, and an advance of nearly one ⅌ cent. in the New (Jan. and July) issue of South Carolina. Virginias were easier. The Pacific Railroad mortgages were a fraction stiffer; 101⅛ bid for Centrals, and 91½ for Union Firsts. The general demand for the older mortgage bonds was much as usual.

The comparative dullness of the stock market, to which the recent heavy charges for Money have contributed, finds the people of the Street very ready to listen to rumors. It is reported, this afternoon, that a conference was held yesterday (on Sunday) between the leading operators on the Bear side, including those who are known to have tampered with the Legal Tender reserves of the Banks, and some of the leading men of the other side. At this conference, supposing it to have taken place, an agreement was reached, by which the Bears should have the market to themselves until Wednesday, for the purpose of buying in their short stocks; after which, hands would be joined for a combined movement for highes prices. All that can be said of this report is, that it is not on the face of it improbable; and, if it is true, that that furnishes no ground for believing that the agreement will be carried out.

Base-Ball—Movements of the Mutual Club.

The warm weather of the past week has made a wonderful difference in the condition of the Union Ground, and, as a consequence, the Mutuals will take the field earlier than was expected. Yesterday morning the players practiced for an hour or two on the lower part of the field, and Mr. DAVIDSON proposes giving them similar exercise every day this week. All were present yesterday with the exception of MCMULLIN and BECHTEL, who arrived from Philadelphia later in the day. On Saturday, the 20th, they engage the amateur Mutuals, the latter being made up as follows: Walker, p.; Bestick, c.; J. Kelly, 1st b.; R. Hunt, 2d b.; Hicks, 3d b.; Gallagher, s. s.; C. Hunt, l. f.; D. Patterson, c. f.; McMahon, r. f. On the 22d the Mutuals play the Baltimores at Baltimore; 23d, Olympics, and 24th, Nationals, at Washington.

With the thermometer at 40° and the snow coming down, the Atlantics and Chelseas resolutely played a match at the Capitoline, yesterday afternoon. The players of both nines seemed to regard the game as an excuse for poor playing, and the score is about the best record that could be furnished:

INNINGS.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Atlantic	7	3	2	3	0	0	3	—18
Chelsea	0	2	0	2	0	0	0	—4

Umpire, Mr. MCGINNIS; time, 1:50; the batting scores were led respectively by DEHLMAN and BRISCOE.

Today the Atlantics play the Nassaus.

The Vacated Assessments.

In response to the order to show cause why the Controller should not be punished for contempt, in having failed to vacate assessments declared by the Court to be void, a return was made on behalf of Controller GREEN, before Judge BRADY, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, setting forth that the assessments had been vacated. The order to show cause was thereupon dismissed.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The following decisions were made in the Supreme Court yesterday:

No. 379.—Clinton et al. vs. Englebrecht et al.—Error to the Supreme Court of the Territory of Utah.—This was a civil action for the recovery of a penalty for the destruction of property of the defendants in error by the plaintiffs, who were officers of the Territory, acting under a law thereof. The jury before whom the case was tried were summoned from the body of the county at the discretion of the Marshal, on an open venire directed to him by the Court. The array was challenged on the ground that the jurors had not been drawn by lot in accordance with a law of the Territory. The Court overruled the challenge, and the verdict upon the trial was for the plaintiffs below. It is here held that the Court below erred in acting upon the theory that the Supreme and District Courts of the Territory were Courts of the United States, and that they were governed in the selection of jurors by the acts of Congress. The Judges of the Supreme Court of the Territory are appointed by the President under the acts of Congress, but this does not make the Courts. They are authorized to hold Courts of the United States. This, it is said, was decided long ago in the American Insurance Company vs. Carter. (1 Peters, 546.) There is nothing in the Constitution which would prevent Congress from conferring the jurisdiction they exercise. If the Judges were elected by the people of the Territory and commissioned by the Governor, they might be clothed with the same authority to decide all cases arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States, subject to the same revision; and it is said it can hardly be supposed that the earliest Territorial Courts did not decide such questions, although there was no specific provision to that effect until a comparatively recent period. There is no Circuit Court of the United States, nor is there any District Court of the United States in the sense of the Constitution, in the Territory of Utah. The Judges are not appointed for the same terms, nor is the jurisdiction which they exercise, part of the judicial power conferred by the Constitution or the General Government. The Courts are the legislative Courts of the Territory, created in view of the clause which authorized Congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the Territories. The organic act authorizes the appointment of an attorney and a marshal for the territory, who may, properly enough, be called the attorney and marshal of the United States for the Territory, for their duties in the Courts have exclusive relation to cases arising under the law and Constitution of the United States. The process for summoning jurors may be a process for exercising their jurisdiction, or for the Territorial Courts when acting in such cases are circuit and District Courts of the United States, but the making of the lists and all matter connected with the designation of jurors are subject to the regulation of Territorial law. It is held that the acts of Congress in respect of the summoning of jurors do not apply to such a case as this, unless they were intended to regulate such process in the Territory, which is not the case; that the challenge to the array should have been allowed. Judgment reversed. The Chief Justice delivered the opinion.

No. 12.—Watson et al. vs. Jones et al.—Appeal from the Circuit Court for the District of Kentucky.—This case, known as the Presbyterian Church case, and argued at the last term of Court, arose on a bill in equity, filed by certain church members residing in Indiana, to enforce their rights in the Walnut-street Presbyterian Church of Louisville against the ruling elders of that church and the church itself. At the time of the beginning of the suit the church property was in the possession of the Marshal of the Court of Chancery of Louisville, in a suit to decide who were the ruling elders of the church, and this suit was begun after the refusal of the ruling elders to bring a suit in the State Courts to declare the uses on which the property was held. The whole controversy sprung out of the action of the General Assembly of the Old School Presbyterian Church in respect to the rebellion and the abolition of slavery, which caused a rupture in the Synod of Kentucky and the secession of a large number of churches and church members, who joined the Southern Presbyterian Church. The majority of the members of this church adhered to the Northern Church. The Circuit Court held that while the ruling elders, whom the State Courts had decided to be such, were trustees of the property, they must hold it in trust for the benefit of the majority of the members, and from this decree the case was brought here, the appellants being represented by J. W. Bullitt, and the majority members by Solicitor-General Bristow and J. M. Harlan. The opinion now delivered discusses the question of jurisdiction, and decides that although the property was in the possession of the Chancery Court of Louisville in a suit to decide who were the trustees entitled to hold it, this fact did not oust the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court upon the present bill to declare for whose benefit those whom the State Courts should decide to be trustees, should hold it upon the merits. The opinion decides very elaborately the question of the relations of the civil Courts in this country to ecclesiastical bodies and property, and decides that where ecclesiastical courts, recognized by any church organization or denomination as the proper tribunals to pass upon any ecclesiastical question, the civil Courts must follow their decisions, and ought not to attempt to inquire into the correctness; and that, in this respect, the English and Scotch authorities to the contrary have no proper application to this country. On this ground the decision expressly overrules the doctrine, recently enunciated by the Court of Appeals of Kentucky.

Mr. Justice MILLER delivered the opinion. Justices CLIFFORD and DAVIS dissented on the question of jurisdiction, holding that in the state of the record, the merits of the case were not necessarily before the Court.

SUPREME COURT — CIRCUIT — PART II. — APRIL 15.

Before Judge Barrett and a Jury.

LIABILITY OF SHERIFF FOR ESCAPE.

Mass vs. O'Brien, Sheriff, &c.—This was an action to recover the amount of a debt, $5,370 25, held against one Raymond La Torre, whom it is charged defendant allowed to escape while in his custody, in Ludlow-street Jail, by virtue of a final commitment under the Stillwell act. It appeared in evidence that the arrest took place on Dec. 21, 1867; that during the following Spring La Torre was declared a bankrupt; that before the 27th of June, 1868, Mr. Tracy, the Warden of the prison, accompanied the prisoner down-town to see a creditor with whom he hoped to make a settlement, and brought him back to prison the same day. Again, on the 7th of July, the Warden took him to Brooklyn to see his sick child. The present suit was commenced on the 27th of June, 1868, and the Court ruled that the second escape having taken place after that time, testimony could not be admitted in reference to it. Under the Stillwell act it is incumbent on the Sheriff or his deputies to keep the debtor in close confinement, and the Court held that, although the papers in the case were not served on the defendant until after the prisoner had been again placed within the walls of the prison, yet it was an escape, and his return was no defense. The Court held also that, though the amount of the debt was prima facie the rule of damages, yet the defendant was at liberty to show such other loss as might have occurred to plaintiff by the escape. On the part of the defense evidence was given showing that La Torre was worth nothing at the time of the escape, and it must be shown on the part of the plaintiff in order to recover that the prisoner had concealed property which, under the coercion of a close imprisonment he might have revealed or applied to the payment of the debt. The Court left it to the jury to say what might have been obtained by such coercion for the plaintiff. On that question they could consider the evidence on both sides, and in judging of the probability of La Torre's fraudulently concealing property, they were not to take into consideration the original fraud except so far as it might affect his character. The jury having been out some time, and failing to agree, the Court ordered a sealed verdict.

A. R. Dyett for plaintiff; A. J. Vanderpool for defendant.

The Hyde Murder Trial—The First Day's Proceedings.

The trial of Mrs. FANNY HYDE for killing her employer, GEORGE W. WATSON, in Williamsburg, on the 26th of January, was begun yesterday morning in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Brooklyn, before Judge TAPPAN. Great interest was felt in the case, and the Court-room was filled with spectators, among whom were a number of ladies. The prisoner was seated during the day by her father and husband. District-Attorney BRITTON conducted the prosecution, while the defense was managed by S. D. MORRIS, Esq., assisted by Messrs. E. PEARSALL and F. KEADY. It was 2 o'clock before a jury could be impaneled. The only witnesses produced yesterday were several fellow-operatives of the prisoner in Mr. WATSON's factory at the time of the homicide, who testified as to the occurrence of that day after the deed was perpetrated, but none of whom had witnessed its actual occurrence. The defense admit the shooting, but claim that it was justifiable, the prisoner having acted simply in defense of her honor.

Strike of the Rockmen.

Yesterday morning about sixty men engaged in blasting rocks on Sixth-avenue and Fifty-third-street and vicinity struck for higher wages, and succeeded in obtaining an additional twenty-five cents per day. During the Winter they received $2 per day, then struck for $2 25, and now for $2 50. It was [illegible] would have taken place yesterday, as some gangs of men were present requiring the wages paid. Three policemen [illegible] by a gang, but on the arrival of the reserve force from the Twenty-second Precinct Station they dispersed and returned to their work.

General Order Stores in Jersey City and Hoboken.

The bonded warehouses in Jersey City, known formerly as the bonded stores, or Jersey City stores, and heretofore under bonds in the name of C. G. FRANCKLYN, of the Cunard line of steamers, has been transferred to the New-Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company, Mr. ALFRED L. DENNIS, President, as principal on the bonds. The bonds were recently submitted to Washington for the approval of Secretary BOUTWELL. As before announced in the TIMES, it is rumored that OELRICHS & CO., of the German line, will [illegible] the stores at Hoboken into [illegible] stores, and both of these stores will be used as General Order stores.

The Westfield Suits in Brooklyn.

A libel was filed in the United States District Court, yesterday, against the steam-boat Westfield, her tackle, &c., by LOUIS KORN, administrator of HENRY KORN. This is the first case arising from the Westfield disaster which has been brought into the United States Court. HENRY KORN was thirteen years of age, whose father, the plaintiff, claims $5,000 damages for his death. The process was made returnable on May 1.

The second trial of the Cheneviere suit came up also yesterday in the Supreme Court, before Judge PRATT. The day was occupied in selecting a jury, after which the case was adjourned to Wednesday.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WYCKOFF WOODEN PAVEMENT.—City and village officials are invited to examine the Wyckoff Patent Wooden Pave before making contracts otherwise. This pavement is noted—First, for its cheapness; it can be laid for from FIFTY CENTS to ONE DOLLAR per yard less than any other. Second, it is more durable, easier to ride over, both for the horse and carriage, and repairs do not deface it. Examine it before trying elsewhere. Communicate with the subscriber as follows:

The New-York Times.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

Notice.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

☞ Advertisements for the WEEKLY TIMES must be handed in before 10 o'clock this evening.

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the TIMES will be received at No. 54 West 32d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 23d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,241 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The NEW-YORK TIMES has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 44 Court-st opposite the City Hall, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. The dispatches we are now receiving from Cincinatti and other points in the West afford examples of the thorough and impartial manner in which our correspondents will perform their work. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

Citizens in favor of keeping the government out of the hands of repudiators and rebels, of economical administration of our national finances, and straightforward enforcement of existing laws, must not neglect the opportunity afforded them by the meeting at the Cooper Institute to-morrow night to lend their voices to the popular indorsement of the Republican Party. The merchant, the mechanic, the house-holder, and tax-payers of every class, should evince by their presence at this meeting the interest they take in the welfare of the country, and manifest a determination to defeat the plots and schemes of disappointed politicians, who are ready to forget principle in aiming at advancing their own selfish ends. The living issues of the campaign will be clearly defined by the able speakers who are to address the meeting.

It is to be hoped that the Senate will resolutely decline to concur in the vote of the House, cutting down the civil service reform appropriation to ten thousand dollars. That vote is substantially for abandoning the reform, and we do not see how it can be reconciled with fairness to the President, with sound policy, or with political expediency. President GRANT is entitled to support in a measure which he has adopted deliberately and earnestly. The country has, in every possible way, amply approved of the President's course, and the action of the House of Representatives is being seized upon with eagerness by the enemies of the party, for the reason that it is so plainly against the views of the country. Gen. GRANT and the party have some very able and some very zealous friends in the Senate. Will they allow what amounts to an insult to both the President and the party to pass unchallenged?

A party of "reform," which begins by stealing the names of gentlemen who are too sagacious to have anything to do with it, and which has not enough ideas of its own to furnish the intellectual equipment of a baby, does not come before the world under very promising circumstances. Yet that is the plight of the men who got up last Friday's meeting in this City. As the truth about that meeting comes to be known, it will grow more and more ridiculous. It was got up exclusively by Tammany Republicans, ex-rebels, (like FELLOWES, the Confederate Colonel, and hired slanderer,) and disappointed office-seekers. It was designed solely to assist the Democrats back to power. If holders of National and State securities, of all kinds, wish to place their property in jeopardy, they cannot go a shorter way to work than to get up more such meetings. We may then soon have a proposition for the payment of the rebel debt included in the new "Declaration of Principles"—at present sadly in need of being eked out.

The Tammany Society has taken to heart the lesson of last Fall. The list of Sachems elected last night has been thoroughly purged of the old Tweed gang, and not one of those names which have rendered Tammany infamous, appears on the ticket elected without opposition. Men like HORATIO SEYMOUR, CHARLES O'CONOR and SAMUEL J. TILDEN, will do all that great reputations and unblemished names can do to restore Tammany to power and respectability. Should they succeed in making the political leopard change its spots, they will have performed a feat which will entitle them to the gratitude of the Democratic Party.

Republicans who contemplate going to Cincinnati, and try to deceive people with the plea that they will not thereby injure the cause of republicanism, would do well to ponder the following pertinent resolution adopted by the Colored Convention at Cincinnati, last evening:

> "Owing our political emancipation in this country to Republican legislation, to which all other parties and political shades of opinion were unjustly and bitterly opposed, we would be blind to our prospects and false to our best interests did we identify ourselves with any other organization; and, as all roads out of the Republican Party lead into the Democratic camp, we pledge our unswerving devotion to the support of the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention."

While the Senate Committee on the Arms Investigation is allowing Senator SCHURZ to consume weeks of valuable time in cross-questioning witnesses who know nothing bearing upon the Senator's charges, the House Committee on the same subject has made a report. It embodies the opinion, we venture to say, of the great majority of those who have followed the evidence. It concludes that the sales were legal, that the proceeds were promptly paid to the Treasury, that no international obligation was violated, that no United States official was interested in the sales, and that the only party benefited was the United States Government, in selling two million dollars' worth of arms at high prices.

The news from Albany may be briefly summed up as follows: The charter as it passed the Assembly, is likely to be agreed to by the Conference Committtee; Insurance Superintendent MILLER stands a fair chance of being whitewashed, and our corrupt Judges have an equally good chance of being left undisturbed. By their protracted wrangling over the City Charter, the Legislature have done much to impair the chances of a reform victory at the approaching election and the late passage of the bill will not bring them the amount of good reputation of which they stand so urgently in need. To allow MILLER to retain his position, and to leave BARNARD and CARDOZO on the bench, would effectually dissipate the idea that a Republican Legislature could be depended on to act boldly, honestly, and with a single eye to the public interest. If the majority at Albany do not perceive the very perilous position in which they have placed their own reputation and that of their party in this State, it is a mere waste of words to attempt to warn them of it.

A New Attack Upon Public Rights.

It is pretty obvious that Commodore VANDERBILT has "fixed" things very satisfactorily—for himself—at Albany. We publish in another column the full text of his new Underground Railroad bill, which, as will be observed, has been favorably reported from the Senate Committee on Railroads, and referred to the Committee of the Whole. As the Senate Railroad Committee has made some extraordinary recommendations during the session, it is worth while recalling their names. They are as follows: Messrs. MADDEN, BAKER, WAGNER, FOSTER and HARDENBERG—four Republicans and one Democrat—the latter having been, however, dangerously ill during half the session. The bill in question, which was introduced by Mr. ROBERTSON, of Westchester, is probably the most preposterous of the number of objectionable measures which a majority of these Senators have concurred in. With the single exception that it does not directly burden the City with a large share of the cost of constructing the road, it is quite as monstrous a scheme as was the Ring Arcade Railroad bill. All that can possibly be filched from the City indirectly, is taken. The lower extremity of the route begins on the east side of Broadway, and it proceeds under the City Hall Park to Centre-street. The middle of the route will pass under Union-square and across Fourteenth-street; while an upper branch of the main line, which connects with the Harlem Road at Fifty-ninth-street, is to pass under Central Park.

Keeping these leading facts in view, judge of the enormous public robbery which the following clause proposes to sanction: "*Whenever it shall be necessary for the said railway, turnouts, platforms or stations, to take and use for the purpose of operating the same, any public grounds, parks or places, no compensation shall be awarded or demanded for the same. * * * But no opening in any public grounds, parks or places shall be more than* 500 feet in length nor more than 100 feet in width." It is difficult to say what in this clause is most to be admired; whether the astounding impudence of the authority that dictated it, the amazing subserviency of the Committee that reported it "favorably," or the exceeding moderation of the qualifying statement "not more than five hundred feet by one hundred feet." When the Commodore was at it, why did he not ask permission to use the City Hall for offices, and for power to erect work-shops in Central Park? The Senate Railroad Committee, at least, would have made no bones of the demand, and that of the Assembly has already given such ample proof of their willingness to oblige the beneficent successor of JAY GOULD that they could have been depended on for a favorable verdict. "Five hundred feet by one hundred in any public ground, park or place,"—why, it is only equal to a beggarly matter of twenty-five City lots at any point where the Commodore finds room enough to take them. He could only take a fifth of the whole area of the City Hall Park, or perhaps one-half of that part of it in front of the City Hall. A yawning abyss of smoke and noise, extending from Broadway to Park-row, would be so charming a way of filling up the space between the City Hall and the Post-office, and would so greatly tend to enhance the value of neighboring property, and the facility of the traffic on either side, that we fully expect the accustomed chorus of newspaper applause will sustain the "favorable" verdict of the wiseacres of the Senate.

It is a perfectly open question whether the Commodore would not want another 500 feet by 100 before his tunnel reached Astor-place. Any how, he would certainly want one about the locality of that "public ground." This might, possibly, satisfy him till he reached Union-square, and then a paltry acre and a sixth, just about the half of the Park, would be all he would take. On reaching Fifty-ninth-street and Fourth-avenue, and running transversely across Central Park, the Commodore's supplementary tunnel would doubtless require an opening, at some convenient point, "for platforms, turnout, or station." A section of the play-ground or a slice of the green would, no doubt, be enough for the railroad ogre, whose cobra-like coils would be marked every twenty-feet or so, all the way from the City Hall to Sixtieth-street and Eleventh-avenue, by holes six feet in diameter, surmounted by a "substantial iron railing four feet in height, set in a stone coping"—height not specified.

The track which it is proposed to construct is, of course, a double one, and the Commodore evidently intends to provide for the passengers and freight arriving at the down-town terminus by platforms entirely separated from those used by the passengers and freight departing up-town. Delicate consideration like this is, of course, but slenderly repaid by the privilege of passing by the return track, in rear of the City Hall to Broadway. This will, apparently, entitle the Company to another 500 feet by 100 of open ditch, which will greatly enhance the architectural effect of the new Court-house, and will very properly draw a broad line of division between that remarkable building and its ridiculously cheap and shabby neighbor—the old City Hall. What is intended to be done under the clause which empowers the making of connection "with any other steam railroads, in such manner as may be deemed best by the said corporation," we hardly dare to conjecture. It probably gives the Commodore the trifling privilege of tapping the traffic of any other local line which may be constructed in all time coming, at any point or at as many points as he sees fit. We see nothing to prevent him, under such a clause, carrying his tunnel across to Long Island, to Jersey City, to Hoboken, or, for that matter, carrying it all round Manhattan Island. It need hardly be added that the bill makes it lawful for the Company "to change or elevate the grade of any street or avenue through which the said tunnel or railway shall pass," and that it contains no such evidence of disrespect to the Colossus of Roads as binding him down to any time for the completion of his highly indeterminate series of operations. If the Legislature proves itself reckless or corrupt enough to pass such a bill, it may be as well to have it understood, once and for all, that the City is not tame enough to submit to it, and that the majority who sanction it and the Governor who signs it will, by that very act, sign their political death-warrant.

The Agricultural Strike in England.

The strike of the agricultural laborers in England progresses, and must certainly be regarded as one of the most interesting events of the time. "The Warwickshire Farm Laborers' Union" is receiving general sympathy and assistance. Prominent politicians fill the chair at the meetings, eminent "special correspondents" telegraph copious reports to London, and follow them up by whole columns of description.

A satisfactory feature in this movement is that employers of labor in other parts of the country have intimated their willingness to give the men out of work employment at increased rates. One letter, coming from the office of the North-eastern Railway, at Newcastle, offers employment to twenty steady men, at from five dollars to five seventy-five a week—a sum which must sound dazzling indeed to those who have never known anything better than two dollars and a half. The leader of the movement, a laborer appropriately named ARCH, a natural genius, has been appointed "Organizing Secretary," with a small salary. Foremost among the "gentlemen promoters" of the movement are Hon. AUBERON HERBERT and Mr. JENKINS, who is well known as the author of Ginx's Baby. These gentlemen appear to have acted most judiciously. Mr. HERBERT has entreated the men to stick to the one issue between them and their employers, and to resist all temptation to turn aside into general political reflections, and has himself entirely declined to be led astray into any discussion of Dilkism or kindred topics.

There is no doubt that the sufferings of the agricultural laboring class have been very great, and probably, in some respects, are increasing, notably through the extraordinary progress made in enclosing lands. So long as the poor man could keep a cow or two all went comparatively well with his family, but the enclosure of wild land has deprived him of this advantage, and he is probably considerably worse off in the reign of VICTORIA than his class were in that of ANNE.

It seems hardly possible but that this strike must, in the end, have a very considerable effect on real estate. The stranger staying at an English country-house, where the host has some thirty thousand dollars a year, finds himself generally in as good quarters as any one can possibly desire. The most sumptuous comfort abounds in all directions, and it is difficult to conceive a stronger contrast than is presented by the dining-room and dinner-table of the squire and those of the peasant he employs. Yet if the land were to be sold next day, the purchaser would find that the utmost he would realize from his investment would be three per cent.

Now, of course, if the farmer finds, as he undoubtedly will, that he has to raise wages from three dollars to four dollars a week, he will demand a proportionate reduction of rent from the landlord, and the landlord's property will proportionably decrease. The probable effect would seem to be that property will to an even greater extent than it is at present, be thrown into the hands of rich proprietors, simply because other people will not be able to afford to buy it.

The chances are that in the course of the next ten years the rate of wages will further be increased by an immense emigration of the laboring class. This has hitherto been hindered by their miserable condition itself. "My people are too poor and down-trodden," said a Hertfordshire clergyman, "to appreciate the advantages of emigration. They have never known or seen anything outside this village, and fear to go out into the world." The success of this movement will give an extraordinary impetus to the self-respect of the laboring class. It will inspire them with fresh life and energy, and they will begin to understand what advantages a country of the size of our own must offer as compared with their own small and densely populated land.

In a speech which Mr. WALTER, the proprietor of the London Times, made on his return from this country, he said: "I foresee another exodus from these shores, but this time it will be not from Ireland but from England." We believe him to be a true prophet. These men are the stuff we want to make the wilderness bloom into the garden—a hardy, patient, industrious and, withal, Protestant population. Let them come.

Fraud Masked as "Reform."

The "Liberal Republicans" launched their boat on Friday night with an amount of noise wholly disproportionate to the diminutive size of that curious craft. The "Declaration of Principles" upon which they propose to venture into the stormy sea of politics is probably the smallest and weakest manifesto ever put forth by any party. It is simply an assertion that the Government should be administered honestly,—a truism in which every man professes to believe,—and that the one-term principle will conduce to that end. It contains no approbation of free-trade, for that would have displeased Mr. GREELEY. It says nothing in favor of protection, for that would have alienated Mr. GREELEY'S Democratic allies. It is silent on the subject of amnesty, lest Mr. SUMNER should be frightened away from the trap that is set for him; and it does not touch upon the condition of the South, lest it should irritate the susceptibilities of the partisans of the "Lost Cause." As this "Declaration" contains nothing that could bring a blush, not merely to the cheek of a Mr. Podsnap's young person, but to that of the most violent politicians of any species, it is an eminently safe one; but at the same time it will be found difficult to induce either Republicans or Democrats to cut loose from their old affiliations in order to fight for the solitary principle that the country should be deprived of the services of a tried and able President, simply because he has already served one term. We venture to say that a knot of men claiming to be a "great party" never before went to the world with a programme so timid, stunted, and absurd. It is not big enough for a party of Tom Thumbs.

It may be thought that the lack of honesty and originality in the "Declaration" was compensated for by the diversity of characters represented at the meeting. Among the men announced in editorial type by the Tribune as chief supporters of the "movement" were FREDERICK A. CONKLING and SINCLAIR TOUSEY; DAVID DUDLEY FIELD, the counsel of the Erie Ring; Mr. B. F. MANIERRE, the Tammany Republican, and Assistant District-Attorney FELLOWES. The last prominent public act of Mr. FELLOWES was to make a violent speech in defense of TWEED, at the Tweed Plaza, long after the villainy of that notorious robber had been thoroughly exposed, and fully admitted by honest men of all parties. The Erie Ring, the Tammany Ring, and the low grade of Democratic ward politicians, represented by the ex-rebel FELLOWES, were thus present to bless the new party. It was not precisely what could be called a highly respectable group, but it was certainly an unique collection of politicians of unenviable notoriety.

Of course Mr. SCHURZ and his friends knew that it would never do to let the meeting depend for its respectability solely upon the presence of such men as have just been mentioned. A list of Vice-Presidents was therefore prepared with much care. In view of the extreme thinness of the ranks of the Liberal Republican Party of this City, it was impossible to prepare a long list, without including in it the names of the leaders who displayed themselves on the platform. SINCLAIR TOUSEY and HORACE GREELEY, and others, were thus each made to appear in two distinct parts. To them were added such eminent statesmen as Michael Murphy, Peter V. Mulvey, Albert C. Dung, E. H. Jenny, and M. O. Rourke, Waldo Hutchins, Frank Leslie, and other citizens of equal eminence and importance were also in the list. The representatives of respectability being still without a full representation, such gentlemen as GEORGE C. COLLINS and RICHARD M. BLATCHFORD and JOHN A. DIX were violently made Vice-Presidents without their knowledge or consent. This was certainly a short-sighted policy; for Mr. COLLINS has already denied that he was present at the meeting, and has requested us to state that he does not approve of its proceedings; while Mr. BLATCHFORD insists that his name was used without his authority or knowledge. Gen. DIX also distinctly declined to serve. Mr. B. Y. PIPPEY has been similarly treated. The Tammany Republicans and ex-rebels who got up this meeting, used the names of these gentlemen without the least warrant or authority. It was a deliberate act of dishonesty, intended to impose upon the public. Is that the way to begin a "reform movement?"

Messrs. SCHURZ and TRUMBULL ought to know that this is not the way in which to start a new party. To oppose the party which for twelve years has held the confidence of the nation, by a small clique of disreputable politicians, and a declaration of principles which contains only the single idea that the Presidency should be held but one term, is not the course which will command success. Even the expedient of giving respectability to the movement by the unauthorized use of the names of reputable citizens, who in point of fact oppose it, adds nothing to its strength. The meeting of Friday night was doubtless gratifying to Messrs. FELLOWES, FIELD, and MANIERRE; but as the birth of a new party it can only provoke derision in every part of the country.

A Husband in Spite of Himself.

The world certainly moves. Since Paris bore off Helen, or the amorous Romans the daughters of the Sabines, a relation has existed between absconding couples which has seemed fixed and immovable. The man, that is to say, has "carried off" the woman. We may sometimes suspect the fair victims of being less coy than they appear. We may conjecture that, morally speaking, they may have occasionally carried off the men rather than the men them. Still, by conventional gallantry, the latter is always assumed; and even in Leap Year we hardly dare suggest the contrary. And thus, as the haughty barons, the Bois-Guilberts of old, dragged off to donjon-keeps the hapless damsels who had the misfortune to attract them, so down to our own day, the tacit assumption has been that masculine aggression triumphs perforce over maiden modesty, and that even runaway love-matches are only accomplished through man's coercive will. But, as we said, the world moves. The female millenium is obviously at hand. All things are to go by contraries, as in Australia, where they have snow in August and the stones grow outside the cherries. The new era is close upon us, and Miss MARY OLHAUSEN, of St. Louis County, Missouri, is one of its prophets.

The claim of the lady to this enviable distinction rests upon singular grounds. She has compelled Mr. WILLIAM FOWBLE to marry her against his will; not by any legal process—that would smack of the stale old past—but by the strong arm; just as the followers of ROMULUS dealt with the girls of the Sabines. That WILLIAM is unwilling to assent to all the presumptive consequences flowing from this summary transaction, may be inferred from the fact that he has already begun a suit for divorce. He was married, in fact, on the morning of Monday, April 8, and he instituted proceedings to annul the marriage within the same week. This dreaded bride, more implacable than the marble spouse of Zampa, insists that the knot shall remain unloosened. The rights of the case may be partly gathered from WILLIAM'S petition. He declares in it that just at dawn on the day named he was quietly sleeping the sleep of innocence. Suddenly he was roused by two men, who commanded him to rise and follow them. He naturally objected; whereupon he was advised that the consequence of refusal would be instant death. Thus courteously entreated, WILLIAM, in some haste, rose and dressed. His captors then proceeded to escort him to the house of a neighbor some half a mile distant. Here Miss MARY OLHAUSEN was found awaiting with eagerness the husband she had marked for her own. A clergyman, said to be of the Methodist persuasion, and who appeared to have been regularly ordained, was likewise in attendance. The two custodians of FOWBLE now obliged him to stand up by the blushing MARY, and actually to go through the marriage ceremony against his will. He besought them to spare him; told the minister, Mr. SHUMATE, that he could not and would not consent to the union, and threatened and begged during the whole half hour he passed in the house. But when he refused to stand up, TERRY and OLHAUSEN brought forth their pistols; when he declined to make the responses they quietly cocked those weapons; and thus, "through fear of great bodily harm and death," the hapless FOWBLE was then and there wedded to Miss OLHAUSEN, and went forth from the presence of his tormentors a married man.

One story, of course, is good until the other is told, and the bride's version of the affair has not yet been made public. As the narrative reads, a suspicion naturally arises that WILLIAM must in some way have brought this terrible calamity upon himself by previous misbehavior. It is true that at the end of his affidavit, he asserts that "immediately after this false and fraudulent ceremony was concluded, he was discharged from the custody and durance aforesaid, and left the presence of the defendant, to whom he has not returned and never will return; and he has never consummated said ceremony, nor assented to its validity, either expressly or compliedly." But this, while apparently intended to cover the suggested suspicion, is clearly by no means conclusive as regards FOWBLE'S past conduct, and it may be that the fair MARY has a better excuse for her share in the business than has so far appeared. No such plea, however, can be imagined in behalf of the clergyman, whose conduct was simply disgraceful. To act as the instrument of men who coolly proffered to another the alternative of marriage or death at the mouth of the pistol is a strange function for a minister of the Gospel, and the act should at least cost Mr. SHUMATE his ministry. Whether this novel method of winning a husband will also involve his loss depends somewhat upon the defense Mrs. FOWBLE is able to set up, and the facts on which it may be founded. If the lady succeeds in retaining her prey, we may expect to hear of unhappy men being hauled out of bed and dragged off to the altar in all directions. There can certainly be in that case no prompter or surer way of settling any little difference of opinion as to the desirability of entering into the marital relation.

Co-operating with Jefferson Davis.

Mr. GREELEY, we should say, does not fancy the familiar association of his name with that of JEFFERSON DAVIS in the minds and on the lips of the people. But surely he has only himself to thank for it. He cannot expect—even if he were cruel enough to desire it—that everybody's memory should be as bad as his own. With the facts in their minds, the public cannot help the association, and they will not be surprised to have pointed out to them that Mr. GREELEY is now engaged in aiding DAVIS in carrying out plans announced a year ago. We do not mean to insinuate that there has been any collusion between these distinguished politicians, but we call attention to what is a simple fact, that GREELEY is now co-operating in schemes made public a year ago by DAVIS, and recommended to the Southern people.

In the course of the famous speech made at Atlanta, Ga., May 27, 1871, by JEFFERSON DAVIS, in which he declared that he did not accept the situation, he used the following language with reference to the South: "Let her people quietly and earnestly devote themselves to the work of improving and building up their material prosperity, leaving those who have the power to settle those questions (of the respective rights of the Federal and State Governments) among themselves, saying to them, 'We know our rights, know they are invaded,' and then wait patiently until we see them divided and at issue with themselves, and then join the party, and support the candidate and the platform that promises a restoration of constitutional liberty. It is then you will hold the balance of political power in your own hands, and it is then that all your rights will once more be restored and guaranteed."

It is now Mr. GREELEY'S effort to bring about the division among loyal men which will give DAVIS and his followers the balance of power for which DAVIS declares he is waiting. Moreover, Mr. GREELEY is seeking to make a division, on one side of which will be all those who agree with DAVIS in his idea of "constitutional liberty;" and it is Mr. GREELEY'S hope to break down the party identified with the loyal ideas on this class of subjects, and to give the Government to a party controlled by DAVIS' sympathizers. So palpable is this to every observer, that all will agree that if Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS were to dictate the course of HORACE GREELEY and the Tribune, with a view to obtaining a "balance of political power" for the South, he would not have it other than it is.

Nor is Mr. GREELEY alone in his substantial aid and comfort to one whom the people of the United States still regard, since he persists in so declaring himself, as an enemy. The whole Cincinnati movement must operate in the same way. The managers may think now that they can prevent it, but until they can reverse the law that in this country absolutely compels an Administration to conform its policy to the views of the mass of its supporters, it is vain for them to attempt to do so. Already, before any definite alliance is completed, their utterances are replete with the cant phrases about "Federal encroachments," and "local self-government," under which rebels and rebel sympathizers have for a dozen years cloaked the fatal heresies and fanaticisms by which treason was made possible. Already their speakers—SCHURZ, TRUMBULL and BROWN, alike—talk of universal amnesty as a "right" of the rebels, however unrepentant or defiant they may be. Already the associations they are forming begin to close about them like the poisoned shirt of Nessus, and men who prate about "insisting" on harvesting the fruits of the war, sit on the same platform with the extremest and most obstinate secessionist favorites of Democracy.

We repeat that we do not charge on Mr. GREELEY and his associates any conscious complicity with the plans of JEFFERSON DAVIS; but they cannot deny that, after those plans have been before the public for a year, they are stubbornly pursuing a policy which exactly tallies with DAVIS' hopes, and which he himself would not alter if he could.

MINOR TOPICS.

The meeting at the Cooper Institute to-morrow night will be of great interest. Able and popular men will be there to address the people on the political issues of the day, and point out the necessity for a combined and earnest endeavor to secure the continuance of that policy which has already achieved so much for the nation, both at home and abroad. Let all who desire an honest and economical administration of public affairs attest by their presence at the meeting their determination to join in the movement now fairly begun.

A shipwreck which occurred last October off Natal, suggests on investigation a similar fraud on the underwriters to that which makes the basis of CHARLES READE'S novel of Foul Play. The Defiance, of Liverpool, bound to that port from Bombay, was the vessel, and her cargo, composed of cotton, hemp, &c., had been sworn to as worth £60,400. Of the cotton about five per cent. came ashore, and was found to be of good quality, properly baled, and with consignees' marks discernible. The remainder, on examination of the wreck, was found to consist of "seeds, rubbish and the sweepings of a gin-house floor, in some cases a mass of live putrefaction," baled with an outside shell of fair Indian cotton, and bound only with ropes. On coming in contact with any substance, shore rock, or wave, or even the wreckers' hands, these spurious bales went to pieces and disclosed their falsity. On none of them could be found any mark or other indication that they were intended for sale. The case, it is said, will be strictly inquired into. Were it not that the shippers are all natives of India, who are hardly likely to have read Mr. READE'S romance, it might be supposed that the inspiration of their enterprise was derived from his pages. In at least one other case of shipwreck, occurring about a year ago in the Pacific Ocean, the vessel's carpenter asserted on reaching shore that the vessel had been scuttled by the officers in precisely the manner described in Foul Play. In this instance, however, if we mistake not, the informer was supposed to be emulating the novelist in invention. It might be a curious and instructive inquiry to trace the influence of fiction in suggesting or stimulating crime.

The Methodist Conference, now in session in this City, has been marked by an absence of the usual assault upon popular amusements. Indeed, the Committee appointed to consider that vexed topic, yesterday made a report which, while it vaguely condemns amusements which are unhealthy and demoralizing, recommends the use of Christian charity in judging Methodists whose views on this subject may differ from those of the Committee. In other words, the net result of the Committee's action is to recommend that the whole matter of popular amusements be left to the judgment of church-members. This is a degree of liberality hardly to be expected from that excellent, but rather strict body, the Methodists. It is evidently the true course, and the one most in consonance with Protestant ideas.

Among the speakers who will address the meeting at the Cooper Institute to-morrow night will be Senator MORTON, of Indiana, Senator WILSON, of Massachusetts, Senator HARLAN, of Iowa, Gen. SICKLES, Dr. OSGOOD, and many others. Citizens of all classes should attend this gathering, and learn what are the necessities of the hour, in order to secure an honest Government in the future.

The celebrated case of Bardell vs. Pickwick has made historical the danger of meddling with widows. But Mr. PICKWICK was lucky, and his resolute pursuer the most timid and retiring of women compared to the plaintiff and defendant in a recent English breach of promise suit, which is certainly one of the oddest on record. The action, which is to serve hereafter as a warning to designing men and a sword and buckler to defenceless and outraged widowhood, is entitled "KENT vs. CROOK," and its singularity consists in the fact that the real defendant whom CROOK represents has already departed to that land where it is popularly supposed there is neither marrying nor giving in marriage. The plaintiff, a widow twenty-nine years of age, went to live in 1870 as house-keeper with a Mr. VINCENT, who, she alleges, offered her marriage. The astute defendant bethought himself of dying, as the most effectual way to get out of the scrape—and he accordingly died in October, 1871. But widowed perseverance and the unfathomable resources of British law were again too much for masculine cunning. Mrs. KENT, declining, like a new Proserpine, to follow her recreant lord to the shades, contented herself with bringing an action against his estate for damages. Naturally, having all the testimony on her side, as well as the traditional sympathies of the intelligent jury, she won her case, and went out of Court triumphant, with a verdict of £150. Let middle-aged gentlemen with fascinating house-keepers ponder and beware.

The eighteenth annual report of the School Commissioner of Ohio, which has just been completed, furnishes some very interesting information on the progress of education in that State. From it we learn that there has been an encouraging increase in the daily attendance pupils, and that the vexed question of negro admissions has been, with few exceptions, satisfactorily disposed of. There are now 13,402 colored males, and 2,881 colored females under instruction. During the year 1871, 539,511 males, and 518,537 females took advantage of the public school system, at an average cost of $14 37 per head. There is one feature of the report, however, that is not calculated to please the ladies. The Commissioner takes occasion to refer, in a mournful vein, to the multiplicity of applications from young girls who are desirous of assisting in the work of training the youthful mind. As a consequence, the salaries of those who are already in office have been reduced from $28 to $26 per month; and, from present appearances, we should not be at all surprised to see the amount reduced to $20. What makes the case of these women particularly hard is, that during the same time the salaries of the male teachers have been increased from $39 to $41 per month, although the duties are as nearly alike as can be.

The French Jury System.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In relation to the "French Jury System," mentioned in Monday's issue by J. W. GERARD, Jr., I would say in reply, that, beautiful as is the theory, like all French idiosyncracies it is miserable practically. For, while men are human, one or two "extra" men put on a jury, or rather compelled to listen during long, weary days of wrangling, without having any vote, save sickness or death deprives the first twelve of a member, will not listen carefully—will not weigh candidly all the thousand and one confusing legal technicalities which come before them. The very fact of being "extra" men would lessen that sense of dignity and honor inseparable from honest jurymen.

No doubt a member of your correspondent's firm would like such a law passed while Mayor HALL'S case remains in statu quo; for the extra men being like the "twelve" accepted as unprejudiced men, and not listening with half the rapt attention which men interested in the result would do, in the event of just such a calamity as has already happened occurring again, their appointment in the places of the juror would amount to acquittal. For no unprejudiced man is solemnly going to convict a man who has not from beginning to end weighed all the testimony.

And, finally, absences would be far more frequent, substitutes being at hand.

WM. WHITEWRIGHT STUART.

Hudson County, N. J., Assessments.

On the making out of the assessments for Hudson County last Fall, the Board believed the assessments for Weehawken and Hoboken to be much under the real value of property, and ordered them to be increased twenty-five per cent. in each case. The Hoboken Common Council voted not to pay the increase. Yesterday ANDREW KROLLMAN, City Collector, received a notice from Hon. WM. BRINKERHOFF, counsel for the county, that a suit had been instituted to recover $25,031 50, the amount of this additional assessment.

THE GREAT MEETING.

What Has Been Done, and Who Are to Speak There.

Senators Morton, Wilson, and Harlan Secured—Gen. Sickles, Dr. Osgood, and Others to be Present—A People's Gathering—The Official Call.

The preparations for the great mass-meeting to-morrow night of merchants, bankers, mechanics and other business men of this City in favor of Gen. GRANT's re-election, are announced as fully completed. The Committee anticipate a gathering of the people seldom witnessed even in this City. The large hall of the Cooper Institute will, of course, not be capable of holding all of those who will attend the meeting, so ample preparations have been made for holding a series of outside meetings. Stands will be erected in the square and side streets, calcium lights, lanterns and fire-works will illuminate the square, and bands of music will be present to alternate with the orators, who are numerous, popular and prominent. At the regular meeting Senator OLIVER P. MORTON, of Indiana, Senator HENRY WILSON, of Massachusetts, and Senator JAS. M. HARLAN, of Iowa, will speak, and they will be followed by some of the best men in this City. It must be understood that this meeting is gotten up by the business men of New-York, and neither politicians nor office-holders have had any part in the preparations. Intended as a demonstration of popular sentiment, the Committee of Arrangements have carefully avoided enlisting the services of those who, holding positions under the Government, might be deemed to have a personal interest in the movement. The Cooper Union Hall is to be handsomely decorated, and the evening's proceedings will be enlivened by a glee-club, who will sing campaign glees and patriotic songs. Under these circumstances, there can be no doubt that the meeting to-morrow night will be a grand and genuine success.

The following is the call:

The undersigned desiring publicly to express their earnest confidence in the sagacity, fidelity, persistent energy, and unfaltering patriotism, so signally displayed by Gen. U. S. GRANT, in securing the restoration of peace at home, upholding National rights abroad, and in maintaining throughout the world the honor of the American name, do hereby invite their fellow-citizens to assemble in mass-meeting at the Cooper Institute, on Wednesday evening, the 17th of April, at 7½ o'clock.

John C. Green,
Peter Cooper,

Take Care of Your Own.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I hope, at the meeting on Wednesday evening, particular attention will be given to the financial effect of a change in the Administration. Suppose a Cincinnati Republican President elected, and a necessarily Copperhead Congress, what will be the effect on business and finance? We cannot afford to risk a change. A REPUBLICAN.

NEW-YORK, Monday, April 15, 1872.

The Ladies and the Meeting on Wednesday.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The lady Republicans of this City are as anxious to show their confidence in, and respect for, Gen. GRANT as are their husbands, sons, brothers and fathers; it would seem fitting that the Party of Progress should take the first step toward gratifying this laudable desire, and for that purpose I beg to suggest that on Wednesday evening next the doors of the Cooper Institute should be open from 7 to 7½ for ladies only, or gentlemen accompanied by ladies. AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

ITALIAN OPERA.

The seventh subscription performance of the present season of Italian opera, occurred at the Academy of Music, last evening. "Gli Ugonotti" was repeated, in presence of an audience almost as numerous and quite as enthusiastic as that which attended the first recital, on Friday, of MEYERBEER's magnificent composition. A change in the distribution made the representation, indeed, more impressive. Herr CARL FORMES contributed to the entertainment a personation long since admired and still deserving of warm praise. He sang Marcello in place of Mr. RYSE. The remaining parts were filled as on the earlier night. "Gli Ugonotti" will be done once more on Saturday afternoon. To-morrow "Il Trovatore" will be sung, and on Friday "Lucrezia Borgia" is to be brought out. Next week, at the close of which the season will end, "William Tell" and "Martha" will probably be produced.

MISS NILSSON IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Strakosch-Nilsson opera troupe appeared last evening at the Philadelphia Academy of Music. Telegraphic advices report a crowded auditorium and unbounded enthusiasm. "Lucia di Lammermoor" was given. It was cast as in New-York. The effective incidents of the opera were productive of the usual results. Miss NILSSON was twice summoned before the curtain at the end of the first act, and thrice at the close of act the second: the mad-scene made the wonted deep impression, and this found utterance in loud evidences of admiration. Wednesday, Miss NILSSON is to be heard in "Mignon," the rôle of Filina being then entrusted to Miss PAULINE CANISSA, and the other parts being assigned to the performers familiar to local audiences.

SENOR SARASATE'S CONCERT.

Señor SARASATE's concert, we once more remind the reader, is to take place this evening. The programme is one of real merit and general interest: Señor SARASATE's contributions to it would suffice to make it commendable in every respect.

AMATEUR OPERA.

An amateur performance of BELLINI's "Sonnambula" was given last week at De Garmo's Hall. Considered as the work of non-professionals, the recital was one of striking excellence. Inasmuch, however, as the entertainment was essentially a private one, we should not feel called upon to take public notice of it, were it not that it is proposed to repeat the opera in aid of a deserving charity. Let us, therefore, say that "La Sonnambula" was sung by the "Rossini Amateur Musical Society," a young, but able and energetic organization, that the opera was led by Signor ASPRAMONTE, and that much of its success was due to the talent and perseverance of Dr. GHISLANI DURANT, President of the Society. If the public have an opportunity, for the worthy purpose suggested, of listening to a repetition of this effort, we feel assured that the praise we have bestowed upon it will be fully warranted by the event.

Dramatic.

THE VOKES FAMILY.

The VOKES family last evening made their début in the United States, at the Union-square Theatre. An overflowing audience greeted them and bestowed upon their performance unmistakable evidences of approval of its interest and excellence. Messrs. FRED. and FAWDON VOKES and Misses JESSIE, VICTORIA and ROSINA VOKES appear in a sketch called "The Belles of the Kitchen." Its plot is simple. The actors personate domestics. They meet in the kitchen of a dwelling whereof the mistress is absent, and determine to amuse themselves by arranging an amateur representation. Rehearsals are at once commenced, and tragedy, opera and ballet are in turn essayed. The most effective part of the affair is that supplied by Mr. FRED. VOKES. It consists of dancing after the fashion of the taller MAJILTON. Mr. MAJILTON, however, is only to be mentioned to enlighten the reader by a reference to a familiar performer, for we believe Mr. FRED. VOKES was his predecessor. There is less of picturesqueness, perhaps, in the remarkable dance of Mr. VOKES than results from the attire of Mr. MAJILTON, but his movements are far quicker and more graceful, and the gentleman seems quite proof against fatigue. Mr. VOKES also sings well. But the best work in this line is done by Miss VICTORIA VOKES, whose tower-scene from "Il Trovatore," rendered comical by the antics of her brother in the rôle of Manrico, is a most creditable vocal effort. Mr. FAWDON VOKES dances cleverly, and Miss JESSIE VOKES is a competent danseuse, and recites her lines with the fluency of an experienced actress, but neither of the two is so conspicuous as the above-named members of the quintet. As for Miss ROSINA VOKES, she is a most vivacious little person, with an undoubted fitness for low comedy. The performance of all the new comers, as implied, gave the liveliest satisfaction. It is very laughable, is free from coarseness, and is of unflagging animation. The continuous merriment and the frequent applause of last night, we have only to add, were prophetic of its protracted success.

WOODS' MUSEUM.

The "Sea of Ice" was produced at this establishment last evening, and, notwithstanding the storm, the house was well filled. Miss LAURA KEENE assumed the parts of Louise and Ogarita, and was efficiently supported by Mr. T. W. KEENE, who appeared as Carlos, and subsequently as the Marquis. The piece is neatly put upon the stage, several of the tableaux being quite effective. At the matinées, "The Forty Thieves," with Miss PAULINE MARKHAM, Miss BELLE HOWITT and Mr. SHELDON in the principal rôles, will be given until further notice.

UNION LEAGUE THEATRE.

A dramatic and musical entertainment in aid of the Woman's Hospital is to be given to-night at the theatre of the Union League Club. We mentioned on Sunday the details of the programme, which concludes with an act of DONIZETTI's "Favorita." The friends of this noble charity should do their utmost to secure handsome results. A second performance is to be given on Thursday with the same object.

Result of Democratic Misrule in New-Hampshire.

From the Concord (N. H.) Statesman, April 11.

The dominant party in the body which occupied the State-house last June, made the worst possible record, and rendered its memory a shame and a by-word for long years to come. It had conducted the whole canvass on a pretended basis of reform; yet it neither accomplished nor attempted any betterment of the affairs of the State in any respect whatever. It gained power by a bargain and sale which honest men would have hesitated to offer and blushed to accept. It concocted and all but carried out the most arbitrary and revolutionary outrage on the right of a stubbornly honest individual member, elected by itself, that ever disgraced the annals of legislation in New-England. It bestowed its offices mainly upon a set of adventurers, devoid of character, devoid of principle, and devoid of purpose beyond the aggrandisement of their own insignificant selves. It unseated Representatives for no other reason than their adherence to the Republican Party, while it allowed fraudulently elected Democrats to retain their seats and participate in all the proceedings. It prolonged the session to nearly twice the length that was usual or necessary, and thereby litterally wasted thousands of dollars of the people's money. Such is the background of fraud and folly which the Legislature of 1871 has furnished, and whatever good and worthy things may be accomplished by that of 1872, will shine out with great lustre for the contrast.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Continuation of the Investigation Before the Special Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15.—The Naval Investigation Committee met again this evening.

Mr. BLAIR called attention to the report of Senator NYE, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, as published in executive document No. 45, session of 1865-66, which laid down the principle on which such claims as those that have been made the subject of the pending investigation had been settled; also, a report made by Senator HENDRICKS, upon which a resolution was passed, authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to appoint a board to examine the Secor claims; also, the proceedings of the two Houses of Congress as published in the Globe when the Secor matter was pending before Congress, including the speech of Mr. DELANO in the House on that subject.

Mr. BLAIR stated that he desired the two reports just named to be put in as a part of the case, and that he would examine the proceedings referred to as published in the Globe before deciding whether to put them in or not.

A. A. HOSMER was sworn and examined by Mr. ARCHER. Witness is a member of the firm of HOSMER & Co.; the steamer Governor was lost at sea while under special charter; the firm of CHIPMAN, HOSMER & Co. settled the claim for the owners with the Government; the claim was settled in the name of the Goddard heirs, and parties named LITTLEFIELD and SNOW; the claim was placed in their hands more than a year ago, it not having previously been presented either to Congress or to the Department; they got all the money, with the exception of the fees; no person except the firm and Hon. WM. M. EVARTS and SIMEON JOHNSON got anything on account of the claim; GODDARD sent to the firm S. P. BROWN, who had spoken to him and desired the firm to consult BROWN; the first argument was submitted in June last to the Secretary; subsequently another argument was submitted; Mr. CATTELL had no interest in the Goddard claim, to the knowledge of witness; the money was received from the Naval Paymaster; the witness declined to state to the Committee what amount the Goddard heirs paid the firm for getting the claim through; S. P. BROWN got a percentage of the claim, but the witness did not remember what it was; the contingent fee of the firm was fifty per cent.; the whole amount was $52,000, and the claimants got fifty per cent.; the firm took their own fees and gave the balance to Mr. BROWN, who settled with EVARTS; the first decision of the Secretary of the Navy was adverse to the claim; subsequently the case was reargued and the claim allowed.

By Secretary ROBESON—The claim was first presented to the Secretary during the last session of Congress; subsequently witness called on the Secretary, accompanied by Senator HAMLIN, concerning it; witness never told the Secretary what his fee was to be; the charter of the vessel had some words that bound the vessel to proceed to sea when ordered, and bound the Government in case she was lost; the Secretary got none of the money, nor did anybody connected with the Navy Department.

Mr. HANSCOM was recalled and examined by Mr. ARCHER. Witness said he paid JOSEPH L. SAVAGE $21,174 for increase in the price of hardware materials; the account had been put in under the act of Congress of 1863; witness did not remember whether he examined the act before paying it; he only examined the claim in part; the account had been presented during Mr. LENTHALL's administration of the Construction Bureau; Mr. SAVAGE had been paid $9,000 previously; it was during Mr. WELLES' administration the $9,000 were paid; witness did not examine whether there had been any adjudication of the case, but had only the papers before him when he gave an order for the payment of $21,174; he thought the order was drawn on the Secretary of the Navy in the same way other bills are paid; this was in November, 1871; the clerk who examined the accounts was in the office under Mr. LENTHALL; the clerk mentioned that $9,000 had been paid to SAVAGE, but did not say why the balance was not paid.

By Secretary ROBESON—Witness did not know when the application was filed; the market price was ascertained from the Navy Pay-masters; the other contractors were settled with in the same way; Admiral J. SMITH was Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, under the Welles administration; SMITH had something to do with the examination, and said he thought the money ought to be paid; the Secretary referred the matter to witness, with directions to investigate it and ascertain what amount was really due to SAVAGE.

Secretary ROBESON said the purchases were extra of the contracts, and contractors were allowed the difference between their contract prices and the market prices at the time they furnished the supplies.

Commodore WM. REYNOLDS, Chief of the Bureau of Equipments and Recruiting, was examined, and testified as follows: The Bureau is considered to be exempt from advertising for supplies; the Secretary had never asked him to favor anything, nor had he ever consulted the Secretary about purchases; he had followed the interpretation of the Department and the practice of the bureau, and had not advertised for supplies; he did not consider that the act of 1861, with reference to advertising, applied to his bureau.

By Mr. ARCHER—When $14,000 worth of hemp was purchased from CATTELL, he did not send round to ascertain the price other dealers would furnish it for, because witness got the hemp cheaper than the price it commanded at the time; American hemp does not come up to the tests used in the Department, and imported hemp has to be purchased; witness did not consult the Secretary about the purchase.

Chief Engineer WOOD was recalled and examined by Secretary ROBESON. He said he had recently examined the proceedings of the Ringgold Board, and found that the subject matter of the Mahopac and Tecumseh was not referred to that Board, nor was it reported.

By Mr. ARCHER—He found in the papers reference to a side-wheel steamer, built by ZENOS SECOR, which was not of the monitor class.

The Committee adjourned until Wednesday night.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Monday, April 15.

Mr. COLE submitted the resolutions of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, asking Congress to establish mail steam-ship service between San Francisco and the islands of the South Pacific, and also asking increase of mail service between San Francisco and China and Japan. Referred to the Committee on Post-offices. Also, a memorial signed by 24,000 of the leading citizens of San Francisco, protesting against the cession of Goat Island to the Central Pacific Railroad Company. Mr. COLE supported the prayer of the memorialists in a few brief remarks.

Mr. CASSERLY called the attention of the Senate to the magnitude of this memorial, and the importance of its subject, and that probably never had come up from any community a petition signed by so large a proportion of its citizens. The memorial was then laid on the table.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Among the bills introduced was one providing that no money shall be paid from the proceeds in the Treasury, of any captured or abandoned property, without a special appropriation hereafter to be made therefor; another directing the sale of the site of the present Post-office in the City of New-York, to the New-York Chamber of Commerce for the sum of $200,000, in such payments as may be agreed upon, and one giving to members of company G, of the Thirteenth Regiment New-York volunteers, enlisted before November, 1861, the same bounty to which they would have been entitled if they had served the entire time of said regiment.

INTERMENT OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Mr. WILSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill permitting the interment in national cemeteries of all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors. Passed.

KUKLUX OUTRAGES.

On motion of Mr. SCOTT, Monday next was set apart for the consideration of the bill reported from the Joint Select Committee on Outrages in the late insurrectionary States, extending discretion to the President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus until the end of this Congress.

THE NORTH CAROLINA SENATORSHIP.

The unfinished business, being the resolution declaring J. C. ABBOTT not entitled to a seat in the Senate, was then taken up.

Mr. COLE moved to postpone the pending matter in order to take up the Deficiency Appropriation bill, which was finally carried—Yeas 27, nays 18.

After some discussion an understanding was arrived at that the case of the North Carolina Senatorship shall be again taken up on next Monday, and the bill reported by the Select Committee on Southern Outrages, which had been assigned for Monday, is now set for Wednesday of next week.

THE PENSION VETO.

The Vice-President submitted a message of the President, vetoing the bill to increase the pension of Mrs. ABIGAIL RYAN, which, on motion of Mr. EDMUNDS, was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The Deficiency Appropriation bill was then proceeded with. Among the amendments adopted are the following:

Appropriating $29,900 to pay the milage of Senators at the Executive Session of last May, to ratify the Alabama Treaty.

Authorizing extra compensation, in the discretion of the President, to United States Consuls at Algiers, Boulogne, Lyons, Marseilles, Nantes, Nice and Rheims, for extraordinary services during the late war in Europe.

For continuing the work on the new State Department building during the balance of the present fiscal year, $200,000.

Reducing the amount appropriated for the Quarter-master's Department $420,000, providing that no part of the appropriation for signal service, nor any appropriation for the several Departments of Government shall be expended for telegraphing between the said Departments, and their officers or agents, except at rates first to be established by the Post-master-General, under Section 2, of Chapter 230, of the Statutes of 1866, when over lines subject thereto.

To supply the deficiency in the appropriation for the ninth census, $20,000.

Authorizing payment to the employes of the Springfield armory who were such on and after July 30, 1868, namely, the sums, respectively, by which their wages were reduced by order of the War Department under the eight-hour law, so called.

Without action on the bill the Senate adjourned at 6 o'clock, evening.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

After the call of States the question came up on HOOPER's Supplementary Civil Rights bill, and the remainder of the morning hour was consumed in dilatory motions and votes, to prevent action upon it.

CONFIRMING A LAND GRANT.

Mr. DUNNELL moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill confirming to the Port Huron and Lake Michigan Railroad Company, a grant of land made by the State of Michigan for a railroad from Grand Haven to Flint, and thence to Port Huron. After some discussion the rules were suspended and the bill passed without a division.

REPORT ON THE SALES OF ARMS.

Mr. WILLIAMS, of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department, made a report with the testimony taken on the investigation into the sale of arms and ordnance stores during the Franco-Prussian war. Ordered printed, together with the views of the minority.

The Committee reports the following conclusions:

First—That the act of Congress of July 30, 1868, authorizing the sale of unsuitable arms, gave, by a fair interpretation of its letter and spirit, full authority to the Secretary of War to sell and dispose of the arms and ordnance stores in question, and that in doing so he violated neither the letter nor the spirit of the law.

Second—That the proceeds of the sales were promptly paid into the Treasury.

Third—That no sales were made to any known agent of either of the belligerent Governments, and that no act was done by the Secretary of War or any of his subordinates that was calculated to impair or violate any international obligation.

Fourth—That no official of the United States Government was pecuniarily benefited in connection with the sales.

Fifth—That the only party benefited was the Government of the United States, in having disposed of unsuitable arms at the highest market price to the amount of nearly $10,000,000.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the River and Harbor Improvement bill, which appropriates about $5,000,000, including $225,000 for the removal of the Hell Gate and other obstructions in the East River, New-York.

The bill was passed with but few unimportant amendments.

INDIAN AND MEXICAN DEPREDATIONS.

Mr. HANCOCK introduced a bill for the appointment by the President of three Commissioners, at a salary of ten dollars per day each, to inquire into depredations on the frontiers of Texas by bands of Indians and Mexicans, and appropriating $6,000 for the expenses of the commission. The bill passed, and at 4¾ P. M. the House adjourned.

"MONSIEUR DE PARIS."

Death of the Headsman of France—The Story of M. Heindrich.

Correspondence of the London Daily News.

M. DE PARIS is dead! I do not speak of the Prince who takes his title from the French capital; but of that sinister personage who, according to JOSEPH DE MAISTRE, is, after the priest, the mainstay of social order, of political tranquillity; the eliminator of the rankest weeds of humanity; the terror of the evil-doer, and yet an object of loathing to the just man; the executioner of Paris. M. DE PARIS made his exit from life's stage on the morning of Good Friday. Death gave him but a short notice. He was, when returning to his house in the Boulevard Beaumarchais from hearing a Stabat at St. Eustache, taken suddenly ill, and died some moments after, just as he reached home. A few days previously he expressed a fear that he would prove the victim of his recently extended sphere of official duties; for, in point of fact, since M. DUFAURE became Minister of Justice, M. DE PARIS had a right to the style and title of M. de France. Within the last ten months he had to do the work of the eighty-four departmental executioners, whose posts M. THIERS abolished from motives of economy. A dreadful arrear of business fell upon his hand in consequence of the closing of the Law Courts in the invaded departments. LEMETTRE, the Tropmann of the North, was the last person M. DE PARIS sent out of the world. Three days before he presided at the triple execution of Chartres; and on his way to the Pas de Calais he assisted at the decapitation of a woman who had aided, in 1871, in murdering a peddler, and then attempted to lay her crime at the door of the Prussians. From a fear that if LEMETTRE were sent by rail from the town where he was convicted to the scene of his crimes, where he was to be executed, the train conveying him might cross that of the Prince of WALES, he and M. DE PARIS, attended by four gendarmes, were locked up in a prison van, and sent jolting for thirty miles distance over a roughly-paved road. This dismal journey greatly fatigued the headsman, who, when he made it, was past seventy, and had exercised his ghastly calling fifty-four years.

The real name of M. DE PARIS was AIMABLE MARIE JEAN BAPTISTE HEINDRICH. He was an Alsatian, and the son of the public executioner of Toulon, where he made his début on the guillotine at a quadruple execution. That (according to JOSEPH LE MAISTRE) instrument of public health was then infinitely more clumsy than it now is. Fifty years ago stolid impassibility and muscular power were the qualities chiefly looked for in an executioner. The future M. DE PARIS possessed these qualities in a rare degree, together with a faculty for mechanical contrivance and a strong ambition to perfect Dr. GUILLOTIN's invention. CANNING, in the "Anti-Jacobin," spoke of touching "with fairy hand the frolic pin." In his time it required a great amount of muscular force to get through the execution of any one who made a struggle for life. In the best of cases nothing short of a strong tug at a sort of cable brought down the cold steel knife upon the patient's head. The new decapitating-machine of the Roquette Prison, constructed to replace the one solemnly burned by the Commune, has all HEINDRICH's successive improvements. He christened it "Jacqueline," and took an almost paternal pride in pointing out its perfections. When the sphere of his duties became wide as the boundaries of France, he bargained with the Parquet that, whenever he should be sent to preside at a provincial execution, he was to take Jacqueline along with him. An eminent member of the French Bar took me some years ago with a party of American young ladies to see, as Paris lions, HEINDRICH and the ancestresses of Jacqueline. M. DE PARIS then lived in the rural suburb of Valois Champerret. He inhabited a pretty and very retired villa in Rue du Bois, just skirting the park of Neuilly. The garden was surrounded by ivy-colored walls. Some fine old trees shaded a corner of the house. HEINDRICH loved turf and fine art, and was, when we invaded his domain, watering a close-shaven lawn, in the centre of which stood a marble Cupid. The mischievous little god was in the act of letting an arrow fly at a nymph some yards distant from him. M. DE PARIS seemed bewildered at the sight of the visitors. The writer of this letter was introduced as a person wanting some guillotine statistics for a benevolent society, and the young ladies as mere curious sight-seers—the daughters of an American Judge. Our cicerone informed M. HEINDRICH that, being unable to see the Chamber of Horrors in Blue Beard's castle, they were determined to have a peep at the monster which he had rendered so adroit. This compliment told. The headsman, who at first looked very surly, became merely stolid. He was a very tall, muscular fellow, with blue, German eyes, thick, straight, ash-colored hair, heavy face, and sluggish movements. He apologized in very good French for being caught in his shirt-sleeves, and asked permission to leave us for a moment to dress, before taking us to see four cast-off guillotines that were standing in the coach-house. Meanwhile, he begged us to step into his drawing-room, where there was a piano and an easel with paints and paint-brushes lying near it. An old servant who stole out of an adjacent kitchen during the master's absence to chat with the strangers, informed us that they were bought for the young lady, then under a disguised name at the most fashionable convent school in Paris. The "young lady" was HEINDRICH's adopted daughter. She knew nothing of her putative father's profession. There was also "a young gentleman" at the Prince Imperial's Lycee, near Vanves. Before the master of the house returned, the garrulous crone managed to enlighten us as to his domestic arrangements, and the manner in which he was summoned from his household gods to discharge his public functions. A lancer brought him the summons from the Parquet, invariably at 9 in the evening. Horrible detail—when the fatal missive was received, the headsman, after ordering a solid repast for 3 in the morning, in order to strengthen his nerves, went into the coach-house with an assistant, who served him for a gardener, to operate on a calf, which he kept for the purpose of rehearsing. The headsman returned, wearing his official suit of black, and a white cravat. He did the honors of the coach-house with quiet ease, offered to send for a calf, which he said would cost him nothing, whereupon to test some recent improvements he had effected in his instrument. One of the questions put to him by me, in my assumed character of a member of a benevolent society, was, whether he thought the separated head continued to live after it rolled into the basket. He pondered a few minutes, as if to collect his memory, and then related instances which went to support an affirmative answer. His experience was very extensive, and he thought he had better data to go upon than no matter what member of the Academy of Sciences. How many persons had passed through his hands? 139! For a moment the idea crossed my mind that HEINDRICH might be haunted by the heads of those he had the most trouble in executing. But he appeared so unimaginative, not to say coldly stolid, that I half credit what he related to us of a woman's head making a faint effort to spit at him, and the violent contortions of ORSINI's facial muscles. HEINDRICH took a pride in his thorough knowledge of his business. In point of thoroughness—to compare small things with great—he was in his way a MOLTKE. What do you think of an executioner following VELPEAU's lectures to make himself acquainted with the exact locality of that point of the spine described by French anatomists as the nœud vital? On the eve of TROPMANN's execution M. DE PARIS passed three hours in the parlor of the Governor of the Roquette prison, chatting on professional matters with a group of French journalists. The conversation happening to turn on the tortures inflicted on Chinese and Persian criminals, M. DE PARIS said: "I have read of what they call in China the torture of the ten thousand bits of flesh, which consists of cutting a living man into mince-meat. But the brutes engaged to do the work are so grossly ignorant, that not one of them knows exactly where to find the joint."

HEINDRICH obtained the post of public executioner of Paris against 552 competitors. He had a fixed salary of 9,000 francs a year, a "gratification" of 150 francs for every execution, an allowance for cabs and calves, and for coffee and brandy on the mornings on which he exercised his odious calling.

JUDGE CURTIS.

Investigation Before a Committee of the Bar Association—He Denies Its Jurisdiction—Damaging Testimony Taken.

A committee of the Bar Association, consisting of Messrs. TOWNSEND, SEWELL, BEALL, and OLNEY, with Judge DAVIS as Chairman, met last evening at the head-quarters of the Association, No. 20 West Twenty-seventh street, to inquire into matters concerning the conduct of the Marine Court, the investigation having been sought in consequence of the publication of a letter signed by Judge CURTIS inviting such an inquiry and making certain charges against his associate Justices.

The proceedings were commenced by Mr. TOWNSEND alluding to a preliminary meeting held on Friday last when testimony was taken which had led to the Secretary sending out invitations to the several Justices, asking them to be present and give their statements as the Committee were not armed with power to administer oaths. The members of the Committee would therefore request that the statements should be given.

Judge CURTIS then said he had received the invitation to be present, and out of respect to the standing of the gentlemen who composed the Committee, he had responded; but as they formed an irresponsible body, without power to send for persons or papers, and without power to compel attendance, he must decline to say anything. If there were charges to be made against him, he would demand an investigation at the proper time and place, and before the proper powers, when he would be ready to return an answer. He would, however, say that he would retract nothing he had said, written or caused to be printed; but it would be ill-advised in him, as a lawyer, to concede a position which did not exist, and he would therefore respectfully take his leave.

Mr. TOWNSEND said the Committee did not call upon him to answer charges, but to make statements or charges against others, as it was understood he had charges to make.

Judge CURTIS replied that he had no charges to make before that Committee, but at the proper time would be ready to defend himself as an official, so far as his own conduct was concerned.

Judge DAVIS said that Justice SHEA had sent a communication to the Bar Association, asking them to investigate the matter, and the invitation had been sent to him in order to hear what he, with others, had to say. The Committee had no intention to put Judge CURTIS on his defense.

Judge CURTIS replied that if the Committee could put their finger on a wrong act he had committed, he was perfectly willing they should do so; but he could not recognize their authority, and had only responded out of respect to the Chairman and the persons who composed the Committee. He was not a member of the Bar Association, knew of no charges being made against him, and could only answer such charges before the proper powers.

Judge CURTIS then left the Committee room.

Judge JOACHIMSEN was then asked if he had any statements to make. He replied that he would not enter on the question of the power of the Committee, as he believed that in order to make the Marine Court useful, it would be necessary that it should preserve its purity; believed also that every citizen had the right to call for an explanation of his judicial acts, as it was the citizens who had put him on the bench. In reply to questions from Judge DAVIS and other members of the Committee, he said he had made perhaps fifty references since August, 1870, but had never referred cases to his son-in-law against the consent of counsel; owing to the want of accommodation in the Court, it was necessary at times to refer cases; did not know of any combination of Judges for illegal purposes, and did not believe any existed; did not know of any understanding among the Judges with regard to references; had noticed Judge CURTIS talking to members of the Bar during General Term, and they to him, but did not hear the subject of their conversation; did not recollect seeing Judge CURTIS intoxicated on the bench, but had heard him use rough language while the business of the Court was going on—language which he did not think any Judge should use in Court; had referred cases to GOODHART, who had been introduced to him by Judge CURTIS, with whom he (CURTIS) had been a law partner; remembered the case of BEAM against CLARK, which was before him in General Term, when Judges ALKER and SHEA were his associates; had known cases to be taken from the calendar of Part I. or II. and put on that of Part III.; it was in the power of the Judge to direct the clerk to put special cases on the calendar; the usual plan was to put fifteen cases per day on each of the calendars; had known a case where Judge CURTIS took a case out of the regular order and put it on the calendar to be tried before himself; the witness was ready to aid the Committee in every way in his power, as he was opposed to all "log rolling."

Judge GROSS said he had no knowledge of any combination of Judges, except the General Term established by statute; he had no wish to volunteer statements, but would answer all questions willingly; in the case of BEAM against CLARK there had been some unpleasant relations; the case came before witness while holding Court in Part I.; during the trial Judge CURTIS had come to him and stated that the defendant was a friend, godfather, guardian, or something of the kind, and desired that the witness should take care of him; after trying the case witness thought the plaintiff entitled to a decision, and so rendered it; some time after Judge CURTIS met him and asked what he had been doing to decide against his (CURTIS') friend; witness told CURTIS that he believed the plaintiff to be entitled to the decision; CURTIS said that he would have to pay the claim, as he had promised the defendant that the case would be decided in his favor; the case was appealed and his decision affirmed; witness subsequently heard that Judge CURTIS had ordered a new trial on alleged newly discovered evidence; had known Judge ALKER to refuse to associate with CURTIS more than he was actually compelled to do; when the General Term was composed of three Judges, ALKER, CURTIS and witness, Judge ALKER would consult with witness, but got witness to ascertain Judge CURTIS' views; had no personal knowledge of CURTIS being intoxicated or using profane language on the Bench, but had heard of it; had heard of Judge CURTIS taking a case off the calendar of Part I. and transferring it to Part III., in which he (CURTIS) was holding Court, contrary to all usage; on one occasion witness was assigned to hold Chambers, and had appointed a commission for a witness in Philadelphia; the order was made returnable in a day or two; fifteen minutes later witness was informed that Judge CURTIS, in Part III., had vacated his order, and had set it aside; witness was so astonished that he marked it "regranted," and ordered the stay; the case was not at that time on the calendar, and witness was surprised shortly after to find it on the calendar of Part III.; this interference had led to great trouble, and much unpleasantness with some members of the Bar.

Judge JOACHIMSEN further stated that in the case of BEAM against CLARK, Judge CURTIS on one occasion spoke very disrespectfully of Judge GROSS, saying that GROSS had "gone back on him," (CURTIS,) and by deciding against his friend and caused him to pay over $300.

Judge SHEA also stated that in the case of BEAM against CLARK, Judge CURTIS had tried to influence his decision when the case was before him on appeal, and had acted in a similar way on more than one occasion; he had also used very foul language in respect Judge to ALKER and others.

The Committee adjourned the inquiry to Wednesday evening next.

The Cincinnati Convention in Want of Supporters.

An attempt was made to hold an Anti-Grant meeting last evening in Styles' Hall, on the corner of Fulton and Bedford avenues, Brooklyn, by the citizens of the Ninth Assembly District. Notwithstanding the length of time the meeting had been announced, the demonstration was a complete failure, scarcely 100 persons putting in an appearance. Mr. HIRAM P. CROZIER was called to the chair. A series of resolutions expressive of the general discontent of the parties engineering the meeting at not holding office, and with the rapid manner in which President GRANT's Administration is reducing the public debt, were feebly adopted. Speeches were made by Mr. CROZIER, WM. W. GOODRICH and ROSSO SIDNEY, in which the usual amount of invective was indulged in, without introducing any new suggestions.

The Midland Railroad Accident—Inquest at Hackensack.

The inquest on the body of JOHN RICHARD DOREMUS, who was killed by the accident on the Midland Railroad at Saddle River, on Wednesday last, was continued before Coroner ZABRISKIE and a jury yesterday.

JOSEPH STAGG, AARON J. GARRETTSON, GILBERT ACKERMAN and ADAM HUBSCHMIDT testified to the character of the bridge and the condition of the broken timbers. As the important witnesses whose testimony was most desired were not present, the inquest was adjourned until Monday next at 2 o'clock, in order that their testimony might be secured.

The Brophy Mystery in Patterson, N. J.—The Husband Arrested for the Murder.

The mystery connected with the disappearance of the woman "Mrs. Brophy," seems likely to resolve itself into a murder. The woman, whose real name is ROSA MCGLONE, disappeared from Paterson in January last. She was believed to have been murdered, and her husband was arrested and the house thoroughly searched. Some spots of blood were found; but in the absence of any other evidence of crime, the man was released. Last week the woman's body was found in the Passaic River, but after its recovery, Coroner VAN WINKLE permitted it to be interred without an investigation. After this it was found that MCGLONE, who had been working in a cooper-shop in Hamburg-avenue, had disappeared. This caused suspicion to arise, and a warrant for his arrest was issued. He was arrested in Paterson, Saturday night. The body of the woman was disinterred, and an inquest commenced yesterday by the Coroner. Dr. A. RANDALL examined the corpse, and gave evidence that he found several severe wounds and bruises in the face, on the head and on the chest, which from their appearance must have been given before death. The wounds evidently were given by kicks, and were sufficient to cause death. In his opinion the woman was dead before she reached the river. After hearing the evidence of other witnesses in regard to the quarreling life the couple led, and the circumstances connected with the disappearance of the woman, the jury brought in a verdict that the deceased came to her death from blows and kicks inflicted by WILLIAM MCGLONE, or some other person or persons unknown. MCGLONE was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Street Nuisance.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Large rusty iron pipes, two deep, looking like double-barreled siege guns, have been lying in the gutter on the south side of Thirty-second-street, between Broadway and Fifth-avenue, for over six weeks, to the great inconvenience and annoyance of the residents of that side of the street.

I wish, through your columns, to call the attention of the proper (or improper) authorities to this matter, and to ask when this nuisance is to be abated. It is impossible to drive a vehicle to the curb-stone, and ladies are obliged to get in or out of a carriage in the middle of the street, or climb over these rusty pipes.

We have endured this nuisance for over six weeks, and as yet see no signs of its abatement, or that these unseemly rusty pipes are to be put to any use.

Had a private citizen placed one of these pipes in its present position he would long since have been in the Station-house, and properly there, if the Police had done its duty. The nuisance should be at once abated.

THOMAS D. SHERWOOD.

No. 42 WEST THIRTY-SECOND-STREET, Monday, April 15, 1872.

Repaving Fifth-Avenue.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I, among others, have been requested to sign a petition to the Common Council, praying that body to repave the entire length of Fifth-avenue with some newly-patented wooden blocks. This I declined, for the reason that I am opposed to all pavements other than the macadam, which, substantially, has been adopted in most of the great capitals of Europe, because of its cheapness, durability and facility of repair, including its noiseless characteristic, a quality too little thought of in America.

But the most important question at this time is: Are the finances of this plundered City in such a flourishing state as to warrant the expenditure of five or eight hundred thousand dollars in a new experiment, so soon after the removal of the "poultice" one? As a tax-payer I protest against it. Let the present pavement be repaired without delay, and the Fifth-avenue extension paved with the Telford-macadam. This noiseless, non-slippery pavement would in six months save its cost in broken legs of horses, shoeing, and wear and tear of vehicles.

HENRY BERGH.

Is it Incapacity or Corruption?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In yesterday's TIMES I read that at the last meeting of the Board of Health, a resolution that if manure dumped at the foot of certain streets be not removed within ten days, the same be deodorized with carbolic acid, being under discussion, the following colloquy took place:

MULALLY—Mr. President, I question the right of this Board to destroy the property of citizens.

BOSWORTH—The Board has a perfect right to abate a nuisance.

MULALLY—I would like to know what the effect of carbolic acid on the manure would be? Would it not destroy the fertilizing properties of the manure?

MANIERRE—I am satisfied that if this resolution is passed that the manure will be removed.

MULALLY—Will not the members of the Board render themselves personally liable for damages caused by the damage done to the property? These manure heaps had been allowed to exist for eight years.

BOSWORTH—No, Sir; not allowed.

MULALLY—Well, then—tolerated.

BOSWORTH—No, Sir; not even tolerated. There has been a constant fight to get rid of them.

What! A fight for eight years, and unsuccessful! Why? Who governs this City in such matters, the Health Commissioners, or the proprietors of manure heaps? If the manure is lawfully where it is, let us know the fact, and stop complaining; if not, let it be removed. Away with all nonsense! That we may some day have public functionaries with at least capacity and energy enough to execute their own decrees, is the earnest hope of one Fatal Accident on the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., April 15.—This morning a woman was run over by the coal cars on the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad, between Providence and Olyphant, on the double-track between those places. She was walking on the track and in getting out of the way of a passenger-train stepped upon the other track and was run over by a passing coal-train. Her remains were picked up and taken to Archibald, where the unfortunate woman lived. It has been snowing here all the afternoon and the streets are entirely covered. E. R. W.

A Church Quarrel.

The quarrel in the First Baptist Church in Harlem will probably soon be settled in the Courts. The late election for Trustees resulted in the success of the opposition, but the other party protest against it as illegal and have called a new election to be held today. The Sunday-school attached to the church has been dissolved, and the teachers propose to start an independent school in one of the Harlem halls.

There is an exhibition now on view at No. 391 Broadway which possesses many points of interest. It is that of over a thousand sewing-machines, of almost every leading name known to the public. These machines are exhibited by the Willcox & Gibbs Sewing-machine Company, as a portion of several thousands received by them in part payment for their machine during the past ten or twelve months, in the vicinity of New-York, and they will be sold at auction to-morrow, (Wednesday,) by Mr. SCHENCK, at 10½ o'clock.—Advertisement.

Samson's Donkey Jawbone was a mild weapon in comparison with LYON's MAGNETIC POWDER. Millions of the black and brown Philistines, popularly called bed-bugs, cockroaches, ants and fleas, go down before this tremendous extinguisher of insect life. A turn of the wrist, a puff of the Powder, and they die. Yet you may swallow a pinch of it, reader, without the slightest danger.—Advertisement.

HOUSEKEEPERS' OPPORTUNITY.—Our lady friends have the opportunity of supplying themselves with certain articles of table-ware at one-third less than the regular prices. Ivory-handled table-knives at $6 per dozen; silver-plated spoons and forks at $6 per pozen; plates, $1 per dozen; china plates at $2 per dozen, at NICOL, DAVIDSON & CO.'S, No. 686 Broadway.—Advertisement.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The proposed auctions at the Exchange yesterday, April 15, drew together a large collection of investors and others, and, for the first business day of the week, quite a number of sales were consummated, and with rather more than ordinary success. The following is in brief a review of the transactions:

The most important auction of the day was that conducted by JOSEPH MCGUIRE, who at public auction offered for sale twenty-eight uptown building lots, of which sixteen were sold as follows: One lot on the south side of One Hundred and Eighth street, and one lot on the north side of One Hundred and Seventh-street, adjoining the above in the rear, both between Tenth-avenue and the Boulevard, purchased by L. WILEY for $3,600 and $4,100 respectively. Seven lots on the south side of One Hundred and Forty-eighth-street, and three lots in the rear on the north side of One Hundred and Forty-seventh-street, between Eighth and New avenues, purchased by TERRENCE FARLEY for $1,400 each, and considered cheap at that price; two lots on the south side of One Hundredth-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, purchased by WM. LALOR at $5,100 each, and two lots on the south side of Sixty-third-street, between Lexington and Fourth avenues, bought by TERENCE FARLEY for $17,600. The remaining lots on the list were nominally sold at the following figures: Plot of five lots on the north side of Ninety-seventh-street, extending through from Broadway to Tenth-avenue, $19,750 bid for the entire parcel; four lots on the north-west corner of Ninth-avenue and One Hundred and Second-street, $15,200 bid for the plot; two lots on the east side of Ninth-avenue, 25 feet north of Ninety-fifth-street, $3,500 each bid; and lot in same block, 50 feet south of Ninety-seventh-street, $3,750 bid. MR. MCGUIRE also sold at auction, on another account, one lot on the north side of One Hundredth-street, north-west corner of Tenth-avenue, extending through to Broadway, with two-story and attic frame house thereon, which was purchased by J. B. DINGLEDEIN for $9,400; and in addition, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of GRATZ NATHAN, Esq., referee, the following property: One lot, 16 by 100.5, with building thereon, situate on the north side of Sixty-second-street, 80 feet west of First-avenue, sold for $5,900; purchaser, SILAS M. STYLES; and plot of land on the north side of Ninety-ninth-street, corner Bloomingdale Road, having a front on the street of 85.5 feet, and on the road of about 76 feet, sold for $10,500; purchaser, S. RIKER. The other legal sale in charge of the same auctioneer, announced for yesterday, of plot containing some seventy city lots, with large house thereon, situate on the west side of the Kingsbridge road, 165 feet south of One Hundred and Ninetieth-street, was adjourned until Monday of next week.

MULLER, WILKINS & CO., by order of the Superior Court, in partition, under the direction of JOSEPH MEEKS, Esq., referee, disposed of a two-story and attic brick house and lot, situate on the south side of Fourth-street, 24 feet 2 inches west of Macdougal-street, for $10,000, or for $1,000 over and above a mortgage of $9,000; purchaser ALMIRA E. HALEHAN, one of the defendants in the legal action. The same firm also sold, by order of the executors of the estate of HENRY STUCKE, deceased, one lot on the north-west corner of Ninth-avenue and Ninety-sixth-street, for $6,250, and one lot on Ninth-avenue, adjoining, for $4,100, both being purchased by Z. JAQUES; two lots located at East Mount Vernon, Westchester County, belonging to the same estate, were not sold, although a bid of $200 each was received for the same. Messrs. MULLER & CO. also offered for sale, at public auction, the three story high-stoop brick house and lot known as No. 105 Lexington-avenue, east side, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, which was withdrawn upon a bid of $19,100.

JAMES M. MILLER, at public auction, sold three full lots situate on the north side of East One Hundred and Twenty-third-street, between Second and Third avenues, with a large three-story French-roof frame house thereon, known as No. 221 East One Hundred and Twenty-third-street, for $16,000, for the entirety; purchaser, WILBER S. MARTIN.

The closing sales of the day were made by E. H. LUDLOW & Co., who, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of ALFRED T. ACKERT, Esq., referee, disposed of a twenty years' lease of a lot and three-story Philadelphia brick-front house thereon, situated on the north side of Sixty-third-street, between Third and Lexington avenues, for $9,600, the purchaser being E. J. DAY. The ground rent on the premises is $450 per annum. The same firm also sold, by order of the executors of the estate of JAMES BOLTON, deceased, a property located in the town of West Chester, embracing a store and two plots of land lying on the Boston road opposite the Bronx Bleaching and Printing Works, for $4,500, the purchaser being THOS BOLTON, a son of the deceased. A large dwelling, with seven acres of land, belonging to the same estate and situated in the same town, was also offered, but not sold, no bids being received.

The only other business transacted was an adjournment, by B. P. FAIRCHILD, until Monday of next week, of a Supreme Court sale in foreclosure, under the direction of WM. EDELSTEN, Esq., referee, of lease of premises known as No. 542 and 544 Broadway. The property noticed for sale by WM. KENNELLY, under a Common Pleas Court order, comprising twenty lots, located on Tenth-avenue, Ninety-sixth and Ninety-seventh streets, respectively, was not offered, the referee not putting in an appearance. It is probable that the suit involving the title to the lots has been arranged. In regard to the sale at Astoria, Long Island, conducted by JERE JOHNSON, Jr., and the sale at Newark, by A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., particulars will be given to-morrow.

Today, at the Exchange, a large variety of choice real estate will be offered at auction by different firms, and prominent among the sales to occur is that to be conducted by MULLER, WILKINS & Co., at which, by order of the executors of the Wm. Elsworth estate, the entire block of twenty-six lots, bounded respectively by One Hundred and Thirty-ninth-street, the Bloomingdale Road, One Hundred and Fortieth-street and the Boulevard, together with a large gore plot of land on One Hundred and Thirty-ninth-street, opposite the above, will be sold. The other sales to occur, from their character should also attract investors. Today, also, in Brooklyn, at the Commercial Exchange, J. COLE will conduct an extensive sale of 250 Brooklyn lots, an auction well worthy the attention of capitalists.

At private sale, Messrs. HOWE & Co., No. 10 Pine-street, report having recently sold for Mr. JOHN MCCOOL six brown-stone houses and lots on the north side of Sixty-first-street, and three similar houses and lots on the south side of the same street, between Fourth and Madison avenues, for $35,000 each.

The attention of those in search of houses or business property for sale or to rent is directed to the numerous business notices of well-known brokers daily inserted under their appropriate head in our advertising columns. The recent published lists of Messrs. E. H. LUDLOW & Co., No. 3 Pine-street, are particularly worthy of notice, and for reference will be found valuable.

O. H. PIERSON, Auctioneer.

BY A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO., No. 6 Pine-st., New-York.
POSITIVE SALE AT AUCTION, AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
One hour from New-York by Central New-Jersey Railroad.
Thirty-four trains daily.
On THURSDAY, the 25th day of April, 1872,
at 12 o'clock, M.,
of some of the most desirable
REAL ESTATE
in that beautiful and healthful city, viz.:

The handsome two-story house, south-east corner of 7th-st. and Cherry-st., containing twelve rooms; lot 100 feet front on 7th-st., by 270 feet in depth; every description of choice fruit.

The lot immediately in the rear of the above-described property, directly opposite 3d-place, being 100 feet front on 8th-st., (Crescent-av.,) by 270 feet in depth. These two properties are admitted to be the best locations on the finest streets in the city, on high ground, and only five minutes' walk from the depot.

The block of thirteen two-story houses on 3d-st., corner of Richmond-st., each containing six rooms and cellar, conveniently arranged for one or two families, and now renting for $15 per month.

The magnificent Hillside property of 108 acres, about ten minutes' drive from the depot, near the Park, on Cherry-st., with the houses, barns and buildings thereon. Probably no property within the same distance from New-York offers equal inducements to the purchasers of real estate. Situated just beyond the city line, it will enjoy (without sharing in the expense) the advantages of all the improvements that must necessarily be made to that point. It will be sold in plots suitable for villa sites, containing from three to eight acres each, having the most charming, varied, and extensive views that can be obtained in this vicinity, and will be sold upon such liberal terms as to enable purchasers, by a small expenditure of money, to secure a beautiful location for their homestead in what is evidently destined to be the most desirable portion of Plainfield. It is now proposed to macadamize Cherry-st. the entire length. The Legislature has granted a charter for a horse railroad between Plainfield and Metuchen, which will pass within a few hundred feet of the frontage. The city improvements are extending in this direction, and the property increasing in value with great rapidity.

Terms will be moderate, and announced at time of sale.

For further particulars apply to
WAKEMAN & LATTING,
No. 20 Nassau-st., New-York.

AUCTION SALES.

FERRY LEASES, MARKET CELLARS' LEASES, AND OTHER PROPERTY OF THE CORPORATION TO BE LEASED AT AUCTION.

The Comptroller will sell at the new County Court-house, on TUESDAY, April 23, 1872, at 11 o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder, with adequate security, for a term of five years from May 1, 1872:

The lease of the Ferry as now established from the foot of Grand-st., New-York, to the foot of Grand-st., Brooklyn, E. D.

The lease of the Ferry as now established from the foot of Houston-st., New-York, to the foot of Grand-st., Brooklyn, E. D.

The lease of the Ferry franchise as now established from the foot of Desbrosses-st., New-York, to the foot of Harsimus-st., Jersey City.

The lease of the Ferry franchise from the foot of Barclay-st., New-York, to Hoboken, New-Jersey.

The Cellars of the various markets throughout the City.

Several lots, tenements and buildings belonging to the City of New-York.

Should it be determined to sell, lease, rebuild or remove any of the markets during the term for which leases are granted under the sale, the leases for the cellars under the markets may, at the option of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, be canceled, and no deduction of rent or damages will be allowed by the Corporation therefor.

Should any part of the bulkheads, wharves and piers connected with any of the ferries be required by the Department of Docks at any time during the term for which the leases are sold, such bulkheads, wharves and piers, or such portions of them as may be required, shall be given up by the lessees, and no deduction of rent or damages allowed for the premises so taken.

A list of the property to be leased, with the terms and conditions of sale, may be had on application at the Comptroller's office.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.
ANDREW H. GREEN, Comptroller.

SAMUEL P. AVERY'S

COLLECTION OF FOREIGN PAINTINGS,
Now on exhibition at the SOMERVILLE ART GALLERY, No. 82 5th-av., corner 14th-st., and WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION
On TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY EVENINGS,
April 23 and 24.

They number 180, painted by ninety different artists, and were only procured by careful search and liberal expenditure during a seven months' tour through the art capitals of Europe, nearly all were bought directly from the artists, and many painted expressly to order. Arriving late in the season, Mr. Avery has not been able to expose so many and such large works in his small rooms, therefore for their proper display, and on the solicitation of many patrons of art, he places them for public competion. Among them is a
GRAND CLASSIC COMPOSITION BY BOUGUERRAU
BOUGHTON'S LARGEST WORK,
A STUDY BY PAUL DELAROCHE,
and very fine examples by such favorite artists as Boulanger, Brillouin, Baugniet, Beranger, Bakalowicz, Coomans, Caraud, Comte, Duverger, Detaille, Desgoffe, Escosura, Frere, Fauvelet, Gide Gues, Hublin, Jourdan, Koek-Koek, Landelle, Lesrel, Leyendecker, Merle, Meyer, of Bremen; Plazzau, Preyer, Rudaux, Tissot, Toulmouche, Verboeckhoven, Voltz, Vibert, Willems, Zamacois, &c., with many new and rising artists, forming the most novel, varied, desirable and valuable collection ever made by Mr. Avery.

First Mortgage Sinking Fund 30 Years

7 PER CT. GOLD BONDS

AT

90 and ACCRUED INTEREST.

The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 220 miles (out of 290) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY, DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., B. F. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and Northwest, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD WILL BE

33 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY OTHER ROAD,

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile—and Ninety-six per cent. of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

CAYUGA LAKE RAILROAD,

State of New-York,

7 PER CENT.

FIRST MORTGAGE

GOLD BONDS.

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AND ISSUED FOR $20,000 PER MILE.

This road forms the shortest and most direct route from the great anthracite and semi-bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania into the central part of this State, and will run in connection with the New-York Central Road, which it crosses at Cayuga Bridge. Traversing, as it does, the finest and most populous agricultural district, generally known as the "GARDEN OF THE STATE," its local traffic will be large, but its greatest source of revenue will be from its coal business. The road is being rapidly built, and will be in active operation during this year. From our knowledge of this enterprise, and after the most thorough investigation, we most confidently recommend the Bonds as a safe investment. We offer, for the present, the Bonds at 90 and accrued interest in currency.

LEONARD, SHELDON & FOSTER,
NO. 10 WALL-ST.

SECOND MORTGAGE

8 PER CENT. CONVERTIBLE BONDS
OF THE
Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railway,
AT 80 AND INTEREST.

From the time we first offered these Bonds they have been rapidly taken up by investors, leaving but a small amount now for sale, which, at the present price, we consider a very cheap and desirable security, as the road is in successful operation, and earning net more than the interest on all its Bonds. The business of the road is rapidly increasing. Over 1,000 miles of new roads are now building, connecting with and controlled entirely in the interest of this road, all of which will be completed at an early day.

These new roads, it is expected, will add at least 50 per cent. to the net receipts of this Company.

We have also other FIRST-CLASS INVESTMENT SECURITIES for sale.

Stocks and bonds bought and sold on commission.

Accounts of banks, bankers and merchants received.

Four per cent. interest allowed on daily balances.

Second Mortgage Convertible 7 Per Cent. Currency Bonds.

INTEREST WARRANTS PAYABLE OCTOBER AND APRIL.
PRINCIPAL 1886.

We offer for sale $100,000 of the above bonds in block. By act of reorganization of the Company, these bonds are convertible into the First Preferred Shares of the Company, which amount to only 17,000 shares, and into the Consolidated Bonds (recently negotiated at Amsterdam) of six millions of dollars, which cover the entire line of 230 miles of completed road, together with all the rolling stock and real property, to the value of more than ten millions of dollars. The road crosses the entire State of Illinois, and connects with the mammoth iron bridges spanning the Mississippi at Keokuk and Burlington. The income of the road for the year will net sufficient to pay interest on all the bonded indebtedness and dividend on the preferred shares.

NEW-YORK CITY NEWS.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Session of the New-York Conference in the Eighteenth-Street Church Yesterday—Memorial Services.

The Methodist Episcopal Conference was resumed in the Eighteenth-street Church at 9 A. M., yesterday, Bishop Ames in the chair. After some routine business the Bishop presented the certificates of ordination to the deacons and elders ordained on Sunday. Reports from various committees were then read and adopted. The Committee on Popular Amusements, in its report, while advising members of the Conference not to condemn generally popular amusements, recommended care and discrimination upon their part in their own choice, and especially in those amusements that were prolonged to late hours of the night. The Committee on Periodicals reported that, convinced of the power of the Press for good or evil, strenuous efforts to counteract the evil influence were demanded. Members, as ministers, are advised to use their individual influence for the diffusion of correct and useful literature, preference to be given to publications issued by the Methodist Church. The General Conference is recommended to make additional pecuniary provision for the object.

The Committee on Church Extension urged that sermons be preached in every church on the subject, and the loan fund system of the Church Extension Society was recommended. Dr. Kiynett addressed the Conference on the importance of this matter. Dr. Nelson, of Wyoming Conference, was then introduced to the Conference. Rev. J. N. Shaffer, Superintendent of the Five Points Mission, offered a resolution

> That the majority of the members of the Conference desire no change in the Episcopacy.

After discussion it was resolved that it be laid on the table and the whole matter be stricken from the records of the Conference.

Rev. Mr. Crawford offered the following, which was adopted:

> Resolved, That the Conference, in laying on the table the resolutions presented by J. N. Shaffer, in regard to the modification of the Episcopacy, was not designed to express any opinion on the question involved, but to avoid an unnecessary discussion at the present time.

The report of the Committee on Education was then read. Mention was made of the high character of the institutions belonging to the Conference, and of the present prosperity of the Wesleyan University, which has a capital of $850,000, and an ample annual income; of the Drew Theological Seminary, which is overflowing with young men, and has 107 in classes; and of the Claverack College, and Hudson River Institute. Visitors for the year were appointed to the Drew Ladies' Seminary, Amenia Seminary, Syracuse University, and Van Norman Institute.

The Committee on Freedmen offered a resolution—

> That in the emancipation of millions of our countrymen we recognize the hand of God, and that it becomes our imperative duty to bestow on them the benefits of a civil and religious education; that we approve of the appointment of agents to present their claims among our people; that we will receive such agents to our pulpits, and co-operate with them in their great work.

The Committee on Necessitous Cases reported that over $12,000 had been expended during the past year in aid of worn-out ministers of the Conference and their helpless widows, and that the prospective claims for the ensuing year would be $13,000.

The Conference then adjourned.

"Father" Boehm, ninety-seven years old, one of the earliest pioneers of Methodism living, and an intimate friend of Bishop Asbury, the first Methodist Bishop of America, was present at the Conference yesterday.

An afternoon session for memorial services was held in the same church at 3 P. M., Rev. M. D'C. Crawford presiding. Rev. Wm. C. Smith read an obituary on Bishop Clark, who died in May, 1871. Bishop Clark had traveled over 65,000 miles, presided over 42 Conferences ordained 750 ministers, and organized a number of Conferences in the West and South. Rev. J. B. Wakely read an obituary of Rev. David B. Turner, born in Watertown, Conn., in 1816; ordained a deacon in 1837, and an elder in 1839; and who, after a life of great usefulness, preaching 6,000 sermons, died January 31, 1872, in Washingtonville. Obituaries were also read by Rev. M. D'C. Crawford of Rev. A. C. Fields, who died January 13, 1872; and by Rev. C. C. Keys, of Rev. Salmon C. Perry, who died recently in his fifty-sixth year. After the service of Sacrament the Conference adjourned.

Last night Rev. R. W. Keeler, of the Iowa Conference, preached in the same church. Appointments of ministers will be read, and other reports read today, when it is expected the Conference will finish its business.

AFFAIRS OF THE CITY.

Meeting of the Boards of Aldermen and Supervisors—City Finances.

The Board of Aldermen met at 3 o'clock yesterday, John Cochrane, President, in the Chair.

The President called attention to the fact that complaints had been made as to remissness of duty by the officers who have charge of the City Library.

Alderman Radde presented a resolution calling upon the Controller to furnish the Board with a copy of the contract for street-cleaning.

Alderman Joyce moved to amend by striking out the word "Controller" and substituting the word "Mayor," which was adopted.

Alderman Wilders offered a resolution that a fine of $5 be imposed upon all owners of trucks and wagons obstructing the progress of street-cars, which was laid over.

Alderman Conover brought up the resolutions of the Joint Committee on Railroads. The first, protesting against the bill before the Assembly, reported favorably by a Committee on Railroads of the Assembly, was adopted. The second resolution recommended

> The utilization of Fourth-avenue, north of Forty-second-street, and that the whole of Fourth-avenue should be appropriated and the cost of making the necessary works be paid for by the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, the City and the owners of property; and also recommended for favorable consideration the plan submitted by J. V. Henry Nott, remedying the evils complained of as at present existing on Fourth-avenue.

A discussion occurred, during which the plan of Mr. Nott was assailed, and the equity of taxing the Twenty-second Ward, if such plan were approved, questioned by Alderman Martin.

The discussion lasting until 5 o'clock, the hour at which the Supervisors meet, the Board adjourned to Thursday next.

The Board of Supervisors met at 5 P. M., the Mayor in the chair.

Supervisor Coman offered a resolution annulling a former resolution of the previous Board appointing M. J. Casey watchman of the County Court-house. It was adopted.

Supervisor Gilsey, as Chairman of Committee on Armories and Drill-rooms, brought in a report with a resolution that the lease of the premises Nos. 218 to 226, in Twenty-third-street, used as an armory for the Eighth Regiment, be annulled on the ground that it was obtained under fraudulent pretenses. The rent was $36,000 per year, and the date of the lease, which was for ten years, commenced, it was said, before the foundations of the building were laid.

Supervisor Cochrane said the resolution was founded on the opinion of the counsel to the Board.

Supervisor Conover moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Supervisor Joyce seconded the motion, which was lost by a vote of 6 to 10.

Supervisor Gilsey, in explanation, said that he experienced great difficulty from the other members of the Committee in coming to final determination upon the matter. Supervisor Conover had not only not acted with him, but contrary to his promise had refused to sign the report. Mr. McLaren gave about two hours to the consideration of the matter and Mr. Joyce perhaps a couple of hours, Mr. Van Schaick was the only one of the Committee who had given the Chairman any assistance.

The Corporation Counsel had informed the speaker that there was no doubt that the lease could be annulled.

The resolution was finally passed.

The Board soon after adjourned.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen met yesterday, Otis T. Hall, President, in the chair.

Assistant Alderman Stacom offered the following preamble and resolutions:

> Whereas, The position of Inspector of Vaults, Cisterns and Areas is wholly unnecessary and uncalled for by the public, being created by a former Common Council solely for the purpose of giving a sinecure place to a politician; and
> Whereas, The Department of Public Works is the proper Department to look after such business, if there be any, through the Inspectors of Incumbrances.
> Resolved, That chapter 18 of the Revised Ordinances be amended by striking out section 20 of said chapter, which provides for the appointment of Inspector of Vaults, &c., and that the Commissioner of Public Works be directed to cause the Inspector of Incumbrances to perform such duty.

Assistant Alderman Strack moved they be laid over.

Assistant Alderman Stacom moved their adoption. He thought the preamble and resolution would readily insure the support of the Reformers in the Board. Instead, to his suprise, he finds they oppose them. This man (Harry Howard) draws a salary of $2,500 per year, for which he does little or no duty.

Assistant Alderman Strack made his motion because he regarded the attempt to pass the preamble and resolution as a political dodge, and therefore he wished for time to have the matter investigated.

Assistant Alderman Kraus also opposed their passage. He held that Mr. Howard did good service, and was earning his salary.

Assistant Alderman Galvin moved a reference to the Committee on Law, which was carried by a vote of 12 to 9.

Routine business formed the subsequent transactions of the Board, after which it adjourned.

THE EAST RIVER BRIDGE.

Abstract of Mr. Kingsley's Reply to the Charges Against the Management of the Company.

Mr. William C. Kingsley, General Superintendent of the New-York Bridge Company, has addressed to us a lengthy letter, replying to the charges made against the management of the Company, by the Subcommittee of the Brooklyn Committee of Fifty. Owing to the press of matter on our columns, we are unable to publish the document in full, but present an abstract, embracing its chief points.

Mr. Kingsley begins by alleging that the Committee of Fifty do not represent the people of Brooklyn, but are simply a body of men got together by E. T. Backhouse, and that its members have made themselves the laughing-stock of the city by their preposterous acts and suggestions. The Subcommittee of this body is composed of four men, two of whom never visited the office of the Bridge Company, one, Mr. Snow, called there twice, the fourth, Mr. Nickerson, is a person whose name does not appear in any directory. He visited the office on several occasions with a Mr. Dunning, but the name of the latter does not appear among the signers of the report. The first point made in the report against the Company is that Brooklyn has no voice in its management. Mr. Kingsley replies to this that the people of Brooklyn are represented in it by Henry C. Murphy, Isaac Van Anden, Henry W. Slocum, John H. Prentice, Demas Barnes, Seymour L. Husted, Alexander McCue, James S. T. Stranahan, John W. Lewis, William Hunter, Jr., and Arthur W. Benson; and the Corporation of the city by the Mayor, Controller, and City Treasurer. It is again argued that the provision of the law authorizing the purchase of the bridge by either or both cities, after its completion, at an advance of 33⅓ per cent. upon the stock of the private stockholders, is exacting upon the cities. This, replies Mr. Kingsley, is ridiculous. The stock held by private parties is wholly unproductive. The law provides that no dividend can be paid upon it until the bridge is finished. The bridge can not be finished inside of seven years from its commencement. An advance of 33⅓ would not repay the private stockholders more than five per cent. on the money invested by them. The Committee state that payment of amounts due from New-York City has been delayed by an injunction. Not only has there never been any injunction restraining New-York, but that City has paid all the calls which have been made upon her for installments.

In reply to the remarks by the Subcommittee about the connection of Tweed, Sweeny and Connolly with the Company, Mr. Kingsley says that when the bridge was projected it was necessary to get an act of the Legislature and an ordinance of the Common Council before the City of New-York could contribute any funds to aid the enterprise. In 1867, when this assistance was asked, it was requisite to secure aid from the leading men in the government of this City. At that time the three men named were among the most influential in New-York, and the Bridge Company did the only thing that was open to them in securing the aid of Tweed and Sweeny. The following paragraph of the report contains an innuendo which Mr. Kingsley characterizes as malicious and utterly false:

> "Your Subcommittee have seen no reason to conclude that the accounts of this Company are not properly kept, and the prices for materials seem to be reasonable and the purchases made with good judgment, and the prices paid to mechanics and common laborers seem also to be reasonable; but whether the material has all been delivered and labor performed that has been paid for, your Subcommittee have no means of determining."

Mr. Kingsley says the books of the Company were open to inspection, and the work charged for could be seen by the members of the Committee if they had chosen to take the trouble to look; and the insinuation that they had no means of ascertaining is a piece of the same mendacious statement which marks their whole report. With reference to the allegation that much of the lumber used by the bridge has been furnished by the New-York and Brooklyn Saw-mill and Lumber Company, in which Mr. Kingsley is said to be interested, it is only necessary to say that of the $313,945 97 paid by the Bridge Company for lumber during three years, the whole amount paid by the Bridge Company to or received by the Saw-mill Company is $24,110 67. This Saw-mill Company has been in existence fifteen years, and as already stated by the Treasurer of the Bridge Company, who is no wise connected with it, these purchases were made of that saw-mill because it was the cheapest vender at the time. Among other innuendoes of the Subcommittee, some stress is sought to be laid upon the fact, that having received as my compensation the sum of $175,000, I returned $50,000 thereof to the Company. As will appear, I was to receive and did receive five per cent. on all expenditures up to the time when the towers should reach high-water mark. A discussion, however, arose with the Executive Committee and myself as to whether this should be applied to purchases of land which the Company had made. After the subject had been discussed at several meetings of the Executive Committee, it appeared to some as too exacting, and it was concluded not to be allowed, and thereupon it was returned.

The report further alleges that Mr. Kingsley had received the sum of $175,000 for his services, which is considered by the Subcommittee as an exorbitant price for them. In reply, he says that when the project for the bridge was first laid before the Legislature in 1867, it met with considerable opposition, and much time and trouble was spent in getting it through. Then Congress interfered, as the bridge was to cross an arm of the sea, and a board of engineers had to be appointed to examine the plans, and all connected with it, and much expense and delay was incurred before they made a favorable report. When the consent of Congress was obtained, then came the long business of getting capitalists in New-York and Brooklyn to subscribe, and at last the work of building was commenced. Mr. Kingsley concludes:

> Up to that moment the Company had not expended a dollar, nor had anybody but myself. It had been my business, and I had borne the expense, and given it my time. I was out of pocket more than a quarter of a million before a blow was struck. But I wanted to build the bridge. So the directors wanted me. When the subject of compensation was considered, some talked of twenty per cent., some fifteen, some ten, and some five upon all expenditures till the foundations were up to high-water mark. With my concurrence the directors finally fixed it at five per cent., and this is the $125,000 I have received. As a salary the amount is less than any company could get my services for during the same time, and in the face of one-half the adversities. As a remuneration, to a contractor taking charge of so grand an enterprise, it is well-nigh insignificant.

Meeting of the General Committee of Colored Citizens.

The General Committee of colored citizens met at No. 147 Thompson-street, last evening, and adopted a resolution that no public processions should in future be held on the anniversary of the passage of the Fifteenth Amendment. It was further resolved that primary elections be held in the City and County of New-York, on the 29th inst., to elect two delegates in each Assembly district to the General Convention to be held on the 12th of May, in Troy. A statement was adopted, to be telegraphed to the Convention of colored delegates now in session at New-Orleans, containing an indorsement of the resolutions passed by that body, and especially that the call for the Philadelphia Convention was the only true and safe standard for the colored citizens to rally round during the coming Presidential campaign.

Trial of Sergt. McCullough on the Complaint of the Grand Central Depot Hackmen.

Sergt. John H. McCullough, in charge of the Police at the Grand Central Depot, at Forty-second-street, was arraigned before Commissioners Manierre and Barr, yesterday, to answer three complaints preferred against him by hackmen who are in the habit of soliciting passengers at the depot. Since Sergt. McCullough has been on that station there has been a continued warfare between him and the hackmen. The complaints were made at the instigation of the recently-formed Hackmen's Association, and Col. C. S. Spencer was retained to prosecute the charges.

The first tried was preferred by Edward Doyle, a hackman, who deposed that on the 3d ult., while at the depot, he was hired by Mr. N. E. Chamberlain to take him to the Park Hotel, when Sergt. McCullough stepped up and advised Mr. Chamberlain not to ride with him, accusing Doyle of being a thief, and employing thieves and burglars. Notwithstanding the information given by the Sergeant, Mr. Chamberlain rode with him. Several witnesses were examined, and it was shown by the testimony that Doyle had a man in his employ who was arrested some months ago while driving a hack belonging to Doyle, in which were found three well-known burglars and a large quantity of stolen goods. Sergt. McCullough stated that Doyle had left his place in line, and he (the Sergeant) had shoved him back, saying that he was an employe of thieves and burglars.

James M. Eldridge, another member, complained that on the night of the 20th ult. he gave a gentleman his card at the depot and drove up his coach, when Sergt. McCullough directed the gentleman to get into a coach belonging to Wm. O'Gorman, a livery-stable keeper, in whose business, it was charged by the hackman, Sergt. McCullough has an interest. Jeremiah Quinan, alias "Jerry the Lug," (who admitted that he had been twice arrested,) and Edward McCormick, hackmen, corroborated the statement of the complainant, but by the witnesses for the defense it was conclusively shown that Sergt. McCullough had nothing to do with changing the carriages; that the gentleman rode in O'Gorman's hack when the Sergeant arrived, and that Eldridge was endeavoring to get the party to take his coach instead.

Another complaint was made by Abraham Cole, who testified that on the 19th of February last he left his place in line, and asked two ladies if they wanted a carriage; they said "no," and he was going back to his place when the Sergeant seized him by the collar and threw him down.

Capt. Thorne, of the Twenty-sixth Precinct, ex-officio Hack Inspector, and Sergt. Armstrong both testified that they would consider it their duty to pick out honest hackmen, and recommend strangers to them. As it was alleged that Sergt. McCullough has an interest in O'Gorman's business, that gentleman was called, and testified that the Sergeant had never received one cent either directly or indirectly from him.

Sergt. McCullough stated that when he was placed in command of the depot a number of hackmen informed him that they were willing to pay him a dollar a month each if he would protect and favor them; he refused this offer, and since that time they have been endeavoring to have him removed. The cases were referred to the Board for decision. There are three additional complaints still pending against the Sergeant, which will be tried on Friday next.

A Liberal Republican Fiasco.

A mass-meeting of "citizens who sympathize with the Missouri Liberal movement" were invited to meet last evening at No. 385 Bowery, "to unite in forming a permanent Liberal Republican organization in this City." The meeting was convened for 8 o'clock, but an hour later, when it was called to order, only fourteen persons, including six reporters, were in attendance. Determined, if possible, to prevent the matter from terminating in a miserable failure, a gentleman, who seemed to be the guiding spirit of the movement, approached Ex-Judge Goodlett, who sat in the body of the hall, and asked him to deliver an address in the interest of the "cause." He appeared considerably crest-fallen on being informed that Mr. Goodlett was a stanch supporter of Gen. Grant, and that he was in attendance simply to meet a friend for business purposes. Turning to a Times' reporter, who was conversing with Mr. Goodlett, the gentleman inquired how he stood in the political contest, and whether he would not favor the meeting with an address. The reporter innocently explained the meaning of his presence, whereupon the now irate Liberal Republican organizers cried out fiercely, "Oh, ——, let us get out," and immediately the room was cleared of all but the reporters, who greeted the retiring reformers with loud shouts of laughter, and who seemed to regard the matter as an agreeable termination to what might possibly have been a disagreeable labor.

Committee of Seventy—The Enrollment of Citizens.

The attendance of the meeting of the Committee of Seventy, last night, was pretty fair, notwithstanding the inclement weather. Mr. James M. Brown, the Vice-Chairman, presided in the absence of Hon. William F. Havemeyer, the Chairman. Hon. Edward Salomon made a report of the condition of affairs in Albany, and informed the Committee that he had good reason to believe the charter would be passed practically as it went through the Assembly.

Mr. C. E. Detmold called the attention of the Committee to the proceedings of a meeting held in the Fifth-avenue Hotel on Saturday night, and said that, if approved by the Committee of Seventy, it could only tend to divide and distract the people, who earnestly desired reform in this City.

The Committee appointed at that meeting to lay the result of the deliberations before the Committee of Seventy and to ask approval of the action then taken, made a report, whereupon Mr. Jackson F. Schultz offered the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. William H. Wickham, and adopted by a very decided vote:

> Resolved, That this Committee deem it inexpedient to take any special direction of the formation of organizations for the enrollment of the electors of this City; but we express the hope that all citizens will so organize and so enroll, to the end that our Reform movement may receive their co-operation at the polls.

Mr. James M. Brown announced that he would leave this City in a week or two, and tendered his resignation as Vice-President, but the Committee decided unanimously not to accept the resignation.

The Committee then adjourned.

Fleetwood Park—The First Trot of the Season.

Despite the unpropitious state of the weather, between one and two hundred turfmen wended their way to Fleetwood Park, Morrisania, yesterday to witness the sweepstakes trot announced to take place between William Lovell's bay mare Lady Lovell, F. J. Landis' bay mare Butcher Girl, T. B. Johnson's chestnut gelding Lone Jack, and George Gorden's sorrel mare Lady Voorhis. This trot was one of a series which are now announced to come off prior to the regular Spring meeting, provided the weather is fine. The race was very closely contested, and although Butcher Girl won the first two heats, Lady Lovell came in and captured the last three and the money. Before the race the latter was the favorite; but after the second heat Butcher Girl brought in the pools $20 and the Lady $6. The following is the Organization of the Paterson Board of Aldermen.

The Paterson Board of Aldermen organized yesterday by the election of Alderman Evans as President. The various committees for the year were appointed. The ordinance fixing the salaries of city officials was introduced and passed to a third reading. The following are the salaries of the principal officers: Mayor, $1,000; members of the Board of Aldermen, $400 each; City Clerk, $1,500; Commissioners of Assessment, each $1,200; Receiver of Taxes, $2,500; Assistant, $1,500; Controller, $800; City Surveyor, $2,500; Recorder, $1,200; City Counsel, $1,500.

Mayor Tuttle presented and read his annual message. During the year the expenditures of the City had amounted to $367,849 88, and State and County taxes to the amount of $157,861 57, had been paid, making a total of $525,111 45. There were $464,326 41 in taxes assessed in 1871, of which $404,828 19 has been collected, leaving an uncollected balance of over $63,000. Since 1869 the liabilities of the City had increased from $645,305 24 to $1,155,074 21, and the assets had increased from $330,005 29 to $809,779 03.

The Board of Education was also organized yesterday by the election of George B. Day, President.

Examination of Applicants for Admission to the Bar.

At 3 o'clock yesterday, in the General Term room of the Supreme Court, fourteen young gentlemen presented themselves for examination as to their qualifications to receive certificates permitting them to practice law. The late rule has reduced the number of students apparently, or the strongest course adopted by the examiners recently appointed, has deterred all but those perfectly qualified from appearing to claim the coveted diploma.

The examiners pronounced the class an excellent one, well prepared as to the general knowledge of their profession. Several of the students displayed more than the average ability.

Messrs. N. B. Hoxie, M. J. A. McCaffray and Roswell D. Hatch were the examiners.

Whiting, of Boston, and Homer A. Nelson, of Poughkeepsie, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

Probable Murder in Bayonne.

An affray occurred at Bayonne, on the Central New-Jersey Railroad, between Jersey City and Bergen Point, on Saturday night, which it is believed will result fatally to a liquor saloon-keeper named Kelly. Hundreds of Irishmen, most of them Catholics, are employed on the coal docks at Bayonne, and with these men Kelly, being a bitter Orangeman, had made himself very unpopular. A party of dock men entered Kelly's saloon Saturday night, and became engaged in an altercation with the proprietor, and one of them, Edward Mountain, called Kelly an Orangeman, adding a string of opprobrious epithets. Two or three of them then attacked him, and Kelly defended himself with a chair, but was soon overcome, and left on the floor insensible. Five of his ribs were broken, his skull was fractured and one of his fingers bitten almost entirely off. The bottles and bar furniture were smashed and the liquor emptied out. Mountain, the ringleader, was arrested yesterday. Kelly was still alive, but had not returned to consciousness, and his recovery is believed to be doubtful.

An Erie Director to Resign.

The Erie Board of Directors meet this morning in the Grand Opera-house, for the transaction of somewhat important business. Among other things it is generally understood that Dr. Eldridge will resign his position as Director. He has declared ever since the expulsion of Mr. Gould that the new directors had simply to express the wish and he would retire immediately. As he was of material assistance to them in explaining certain contracts and the particulars of the thirty million loan which Jay Gould contracted to pay off the funded debt and the mortgages, it was the general desire that he should remain for a few weeks. Like Gould, he has profited immensely by the rise in Erie, and when he retires will be a quarter of a million in pocket.

Tammany's Reform Sachems.

The Tammany Society met yesterday evening in the wigwam on Fourteenth-street in private session for the election of Sachems. None were admitted save those who had the pass-word. After two hours' deliberation the following ticket was proclaimed as their choice: For Sachems—Horatio Seymour, John T. Hoffman, Charles O'Conor, John W. Chanler, Samuel J. Tilden, Edward L. Donnelly, Sanford E. Church, John Kelly, Oswald Ottendorfer, William C. Conner, August Belmont, Miles B. Andrus, John Fox. For Treasurer, Arthur Leary. For Sagamore, Wilson Small. For Secretary, Joel O. Stevens. For Wiskinkie, John D. Newman.

Drawing of Grand Jurors.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, the Grand Jurors for the Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Sessions, for the May Term, were drawn in the presence of Judge Brady, the Commissioner of Jurors and the Under Sheriff. Among the names drawn were those of Moses Taylor, Henry Clews, Oliver Dyer, Henry Hart and Henry D. Miner.

Judge Brady introduced a new rule, compelling the clerk to turn the wheel after drawing each name.

While a party of nine men were at work under an embankment, at Chatham-street and Sixth-avenue, Newark, yesterday, the earth gave way and buried Peter Ennis, Patrick Gorden, and Patrick Moran. Gorden and Moran were soon rescued. Ennis was not missed until noon, and when discovered was dead.

On Sunday afternoon, two women, named Bradley and Quinn, both intoxicated, quarreled at South Amboy. Their husbands joined in, when, after a few blows being struck, they clinched, and Quinn threw Bradley, and fell on him. Bradley's neck was broken by the fall. Quinn escaped.

James Welsh attempted suicide at New-Brunswick on Saturday. After twice cutting his throat and opening veins in both arms, he was found lying on the floor and was thought to be dead. He did not die, however, and yesterday was able to dictate his will, disposing of property valued at $15,000. He cannot recover.

12 YEARS' SUCCESS.
In the year 1860 JAMES PYLE put upon the market the celebrated O. K. SOAP, which has become a household word throughout the country. During this time, scores of new soaps have appeared and disappeared, but the "O. K." has steadily found favor, and its superiority made known from neighbor to neighbor, until hundreds of tons are being consumed by first-class housekeepers, who buy it by the box. It speaks for itself on trial, and is sold by first-class grocers generally.
JAMES PYLE, Manufacturer, No. 350 Washington-st.
